ULINE PENSION TRIAL DATE SET

Suit of Former Fire Captain Against City To Be Heard Feb 26

First court test of the movement started last year by Mayor Frederick C Smith to abolish the city's pension system for policemen and firemen will come Feb 26 at 10 a m in common pleas court when Judge Hector S Young opens the trial of the suit of Hilbert D Uline retired city fire captain to fight the city's proposal Following a conference with Grant E Mouser Jr counsel for Uline and City Solicitor Ralph E Carhart Judge Young set the trial date

Judge Young and the two attorneys today said the action of the Ohio legislature yesterday in passing two bills designed to prevent a reduction in pension payments to policemen and to prevent attachment of pensions will not affect the situation here The bills had previously been approved by the senate after being introduced by Senator Keith Lawrence of Cleveland but must go back there for concurrence in minor amendments

No Application Here

The bills are too mild in their scope to affect the disposition of Uline's suit attorney said pointing to the fact that the city has not merely reduced pensions but has abolished them Mr Mouser said he believed the bills are designed to remedy the original state law permitting cities to establish pension system by changing the state from may establish to shall establish

Judge Young last year granted Uline a temporary injunction restraining the city from transferring to the operating fund $4 060 20 allotted to the firemen's pension fund by the county budget commission

PACKARD EMPLOYES GIVEN WAGE RAISE

12,500 Affected by Five Cent Increase in Hourly Pay Rates

By The Associated Press

DETROIT Feb 12—A wage increase of five cents an hour for Packard Motor Car Co employes became known today

Company officials said the decision to grant the wage increase was made Wednesday and that notices announcing it were posted in the plant Thursday

The increase affects approximately 12 500 employes working on an hourly basis The aggregate increase and the rates it establishes were not disclosed

The company granted an increase of five cents an hour on Nov 15 for hourly workers and also gave a $10 month increase to salaried workers receiving less than $200 a month Those increases it was estimated would amount to $1 250 000 a year

General Motors announced a five-cent hourly raise yesterday aggregating $25 000 000 a year Chrysler Corp granted increases Tuesday which were estimated to total between $13 000 000 and $14 000 000 a year The average approximated 10 per cent for each hourly employe

PREMATURE SPRING THREATENS CROPS

Marion county's tropical winter which has been greeted with pessimistic forebodings is looming as a major catastrophe for farmers and fruit growers Already wheat buds are reported to be growing far in advance of schedule and fruit trees are beginning to show signs of life, farm leaders said.

Although the buds show indication of good crops this year and little damage has been reported thus far, farmers fear cold weather may cause serious injury later Heavy rainfall and standing water in the field in January apparently did no harm, according to farm organization officials,

HORSE THIEVES LAW ATTACKED

Senate Asked To Repeal Old Statute Enacted To Combat Crime of Former Years.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Feb 12—A proposal to repeal a law authorizing formation of township societies for the detection and arrest of horse thieves and criminals was before the Ohio senate today

A city feller Sen Tom Gallagher Democrat of Cuyahoga county is author of the bill to abolish the statute enacted nearly 40 years ago when horse thievery was considered by the country folk to be one of the worst crimes

More than a decade later the Ku Klux Klan made use of the law organizing its policing branch under the statute

The law permits members of societies organized under it to arrest persons without a warrant and detain them until a warrant can be obtained It also provides that counties shall reimburse such societies for their expenses in the apprehension and prosecution of criminals

Suggest Salary Raises

Three bills to increase the salaries of state officials also were introduced One submitted by Rep John T Hewitt Democrat of Mahoning county would increase the annual salary of the state highway director from $6 500 to $10 000 and that of the assistant director from $5 000 to $8 000

Sen William Zoul Democrat of Cuyahoga county proposed that the chairman of the state liquor commission be paid $6 000 and other members of the commission $5 000 all now receive $4 000

RELIEF BOARD APPOINTED

Columbus Toledo and George town Trio Named by Davey To Distribute Funds

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Feb 12—The bill introducing season ended in the Ohio legislature today and the lawmakers began a week-end recess to be followed by months of energy-sapping work on government financing relief and other important legislation along with a maze of secondary measures.

The deadline for introducing bills without suspension of the rules left 318 new measures before hatrled clerks late yesterday and raised to 955 he number presented during the present session

In the midst of their anxiety to get in their favored bills the legislators found time to pass several others and saw a temporary relief program enacted into law by the signature of Gov Martin L Davey

$4 000 000 for Relief

The relief bill assured immediate distribution of $4 000 000 as an outright grant to the counties for poor and flood relief until April 15 by a new relief commission composed of Roy L Wildermuth Democrat of Columbus chairman Mrs Dorothy Kiplinger Republican of Toledo and Frank X Krabis Democrat of Georgetown

Gov Davey named the commissioners when he signed the bill

Then he recommended reallocation of sales tax revenues to relieve allotments to local governments and sent to the house a two year budget bill calling for $85 632 847 for government operations in 1937-38.

Meanwhile the house overrule Republican opposition and passed the Davey-sponsored bill for creation of a state building commission to handle a long range institutional building program Opponents said the bill which now goes to the senate sought primarily to enhance plans for a $3 000 000 improvement program at Kent State university in the governor's home city

The house also passed and returned to the senate for concurrence in amendments bills to prohibit reductions in police and firemen's pensions and to exempt them from attachment

THOUSANDS HONOR LINCOLN'S MEMORY

His Work and Ideals Extolled by Legion Leader at Springfield Ceremonies

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD Ill Feb 12—Solemn thousands gathered today at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln in moving tribute to the man who epitomized democracy

While elsewhere in the nation others paused to commemorate the birth of the great emancipator 128 years ago a privileged assemblage stood bare headed beneath the portals of his final resting place and heard extolled his work and ideals

American Legionnaires headed by their national commander Harry W Colmery of Topeka, Kas were in charge of the ceremonies

Colmery's address was prefaced by the remarks of Gov Henry Horner Floral tributes were laid upon the sarcophagus A squad of Spanish war veterans fired a salute as the soldier dead and taps were sounded

Various groups made excursions to Lincoln shrines in and about Springfield including the frame house in which the Civil war president lived and New Salem state park site of the restored village where he began his career as a frontier lawyer

The program marked for Springfield the centennial of the year Lincoln moved here Also it was in 1837 that Lincoln was instrumental in having Springfield designated as the state capital

Gov George H Earle of Pennsylvania said in a speech last night Lincoln would have approved President Roosevelt's proposal for reorganization of the supreme court.

Earle said that on July 7, 1856, Lincoln warned Springfield citizens against supine acceptance of the supreme court's claim to certain powers

GMC Speeds Reopening of Plants To Put 140,000 on Jobs at Higher Pay

Buick Officials Plan To Reopen Monday as Strikers March Out and Knudsen Says All Factories Will Be Running Full Blast Within 12 Days

By The Associated Press

DETROIT Feb 12—General Motors Corp speeded preparations today to start again the wheels of its mammoth industry and restore full time work to 140 000 striker affected employes at increased wages

The Buick division of the world's largest automobile producer was the first to announce its reopening It said 12 000 of its 16 000 workers at Flint Mich would return Monday and that the remainder would be called back during the week

William S Knudsen executive vice president of General Motors said that within 10 days after operations are resumed the corporation would be operating at capacity This calls for the production of 225 000 passenger cars and trucks monthly

Strikers March Out

Sitdown strikers whose occupation of three key plants at Flint —the Fisher Body Nos 1 and 2 and Chevrolet Motor assembly No 4— had a spectacular part in stopping operations jubilantly marched out last night

Cheered by their families and throngs of union members and sympathizers the strikers paraded from the factories six hours after General Motors executives and the United Automobile Workers of America had signed in Detroit the agreement that ended the prolonged dispute

Knudsen said that as many as possible of the corporation's factories scattered throughout the United States would reopen the first of the week Inventories of parts other than bodies have been built up during the strike

Stop Orders Cancelled

Stop orders issued at the peak of the strike were cancelled yesterday Knudsen said permitting resumption of the flow of materials and parts supplied to the factories by non-subsidiaries He said United General Motors consumes 15 000 tons of metal a daily

Trade observers predicted General Motors would extend its high volume production later into the spring than usual to compensate for the decline in production during the strike The assembly of passenger cars reached a comparative zero point just before the strike was terminated

A pay increase of five cents an hour becomes effective when the workers return to their jobs Alfred P Sloan Jr corporation president estimated this would add $25 000 000 to General Motors annual payroll in announcing the wage rise yesterday simultaneously with the signing of the strike settlement terms

Union Heads To Meet

Homer Martin U A W A president called representatives of every local union in General Motors plants to meet here today to consider demands to be presented the corporation in the collective bargaining conference to open in Detroit Tuesday

These negotiations were provided for in the agreement obtained through the help of Gov Frank Murphy and Federal Labor Conciliator James F Dewey The governor will not participate in the forthcoming negotiations unless requested by both sides

Murphy commended earlier by President Roosevelt for his conciliation efforts received a telegram from Secretary of Labor Perkins lauding his settlement effected from of your full an statesmanlike handling o this la ... ation

Harry J Carmichael general manager of the Buick Motor Co which gets some supplies from the American affiliate said the strike settlement meant the plants at Windsor and Oshawa Ont probably would avoid a threatened shutdown The labor dispute did no extend to the Canadian branches

FLINT AWAITS EXIT OF ARMY

City To Return to Normal After Troops Leave Strikers Evacuate Plants

JUBILATION HITS PEAK

Banners, Confetti and Din of Auto Horns Feature Parade as Sitdown Ends.

By The Associated Press

FLINT Mich Feb 12—The capital of the recent General Motors strike awaited today a second evacuation—that of 3 500 national guardsmen—to hasten a return to normal after six wearying weeks

Departure of hundreds of stay in strikers from three plants late yesterday six hours after an agreement ending the strike was signed in Detroit brought this city to full realization that the siege of worry idleness restraint and privation was ending

Col Joseph H Lewis commanding the 3 100 national guardsmen that have been on strike duty here said demobilization of the soldiers would begin tomorrow with the evacuation of the 180th cavalry and the 119th field artillery

With their departure about 1 300 troops will remain in Flint but there also will be moved out with in a few days after full production is resumed in General Motors plants

Troops Permit Celebration

The troopers stepped aside yesterday as unionists and union sympathizers celebrated termination of the protracted and costly dispute

Sitdowners in Fisher plant No 1—where the first strike in Flint began Dec 30—were the first to March out after a unanimous vote on the agreement Their withdrawal started as patrol across the bridge from Chevrolet plant No 4 seized by strikers Feb 1 and to Fisher plant No 2 across the street occupied on Dec 30 along with No 1

Thousands joined in the celebration It was a cheering singing throng waving flags and banners and tossing confetti in the exhuberance of release from weeks of tension

Several situations reminded the city of the strike It was near payday but about 40 000 idle would receive no checks the ban on liquor sales still was in effect the city relief load was at 10 000 cases near the record figure a state of emergency declared Monday night by the city commission was in theory at least still in effect.

PUBLIC INVITED ON SATURDAY

Factory Will Be Open for General Inspection from 6 to 9 Tomorrow.

LARGE GROUP HERE TODAY

Yesterday Chamber of Commerce Members Conducted Through Huge Building

A three day program formally marking the opening of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co as a new Marion industry swung into its second day this morning with the company a vendors and customers from every part of the country arriving to inspect the plant

The program will be climaxed Saturday night from 6 to 9 o'clock when the huge plant on Cherry avenue is thrown open to the general public Hundreds of residents of Marion and vicinity are expected to accept the company's invitation to the public to inspect the factory and equipment that produces a variety of stamped metal products for many branches of industry

More than 100 representatives of concerns with which the Defiance company has business associations were expected to be guests today which has been set aside for vendors and trades people

Yesterday more than 300 Marion residents visited in the plant in the first day's program set aside for members of Marion Chamber of Commerce and their invited guests

The Chamber was given recognition in yesterday's program for having extended the company an invitation to move to Marion after a fire destroyed its plant at Defiance and for raising a $95 000 fund that provided the company with a factory building and office

Visitors are being shown how metal curves of automobile steering wheels are made and a small press is being operated part of the time to give an indication of how metal sheets and strips are stamped into a long list of useful articles in the main part of the plant. Operation of presses throughout the plant, however is not being attempted because of the danger of mishaps

Thoroughly Modern Factory

Visitors tomorrow will find a thoroughly modern factory whose products are used by millions of persons and whose market extends throughout the 48 states and several foreign countries

The main factory building is a giant structure 590 feet long and 82 feet wide At the north end of it is a wing 290 feet long and 82 feet wide forming a huge L-shaped building

In the main plant are presses ranging in size from a huge $13 000 machine exerting a pressure equivalent to the weight of 500 tons to smaller ones made for lighter work Also in this building are the tool room and power room

The wing serves largely as a shipping room and for storage

In a separate building to the southwest of the main plant is the steering wheel department It is housed in a structure 40 feet wide and 120 feet long and has a wing, 50 feet wide and 75 feet long for storage purposes

The office building connected to the main plant by an enclosed hallway is 60 feet wide and 80 feet long In it are housed a reception room executive office work space for clerical employes and a huge fireproof vault for records

The plant, formerly housing the Power Mfg Co is across Cherry avenue from the office of the Polaris Steel Mill, and is only a short distance north of the Osgood plant office

Speed Marks Occupancy

Company officials have received compliments of Marion residents who have watched the progress with the plant on the speed with which the Power building was pre-

Another factor given consideration was fire protection The fact the several years of effort to get additional fire protection at the former location ending without success and placing the plant under a handicap they could no overcome when fire swept the Defiance plant made the an important consideration With the extension promised by the Marion Water Co the company feels adequately protected so far as the fire hazard is concerned officials said

The officials added that since they began preparations for occupancy of the Marion plant, they have received the cooperation of Marion residents in every request made Marion contractors and workmen have made every effort to enable the company to get its operations under way as quickly as possible, and have shown a friendly helpful spirit, they said.

Extensive Improvements Still Planned for Plant

Persons who visit the plant of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co tomorrow will see a modern industrial plant that is apparently complete

However, a visit to the plant a year from now will find a number of additions, if present plans of company officials are realized

One of the important additions will get under way within a few months according to present plans when a finishing building for painting, dipping and baking stamped metals is erected The finishing building at the Defiance plant, provided 6,000 square feet of floor space—the company plans a more expansive one for its Marion plant. It probably will provide 10,000 to 12,000 square feet of space.

Facilities for applying paint, or dipping finished articles into tanks of paint, and baking the finish in ovens that reach a temperature of 400 degrees will be housed in the finishing plant.

Another improvement to be started when spring weather makes outside working conditions better is a sunken railroad siding to be constructed along the west side of the building Present plans call for a three-car siding.

Still another addition now planned is a loading and unloading ramp for freight trucks at the east end of the east-west section of the L-shaped building The ramp will be cut in such a way that the bed of the truck will rest at floor level to facilitate handling of incoming and outgoing materials

Persons who visit the plant tomorrow will see little indication of the landscaping program planned for the grounds around the office building The grounds will be beautified, and a large area converted into a parking space A driveway will provide easy access to the office building, when the landscaping program is finished.

N. Y. TUB KILLER TO DIE IN CHAIR

Walter Green Convicted of First Degree Murder in Case Slaying.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Major [illegible] bathtub slayer [illegible] Case was convicted [illegible] murder last night [illegible] Queens county court. [illegible] is mandatory. [illegible] came a month to [illegible] the wiry Negro [illegible] to death the [illegible] in her Jackson [illegible] and left her [illegible] where her husband, an accountant, found it. [illegible] middle-aged men, [illegible] took three hours and [illegible] decide his fate. [illegible] admitted he had [illegible] murder and attempted only to save him from the electric chair.

The killer had been almost impassive throughout the trial except for a brief moment when he rose in the court room to shout his denial that he had ever seen the detective who detailed his story of how he beat Mrs. Case to death with a hammer.

When the verdict was announced, Green's jaw tensed, his lips tightened. He was taken to the clerk of court to have his life history recorded, his two guards dwarfing the little killer. Sentence will be passed Feb. 19.

Mrs. Case, formerly a resident of Skidmore, Pa., was a graduate of Ckidmore College. Before her marriage she was a photographer's model.

One of the arguments advanced by the state was that Green had pulled Mrs. Case's platinum wedding ring from her finger, later discarding it. The state charged the murder had been done during commission of a felony.

Green, who had been employed as a handyman in the apartment building five years, was arrested two days after the crime. Detectives testified they found his fingerprints on the bath room door and his bloodstained trousers in an incinerator chute, along with a half-headed mechanic's hammer, Mrs. Case's wedding ring, pocketbook and her husband's shirt studs.

A Negro detective, John E. Roberts, said the prisoner boasted of the crime when he was placed in a cell with him, disguised as a vagrant.

Green shouted "I never even seen that man" when Assistant District Attorney James J. Conroy referred to Roberts' testimony.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

THREE LEGISLATURES

Although in less than three months the North and the South were to be at grips in civil war, there was a conference in Columbus of legislators of Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee in 1860 over matters of difference between the two sections. A very amicable feeling was manifested.

The southerners had made the first overture. The legislatures of the two southern states came to Cincinnati late in January, 1860, in what was undoubtedly a peace overture. Observing it, the Ohio legislature on Jan. 25 adopted a resolution inviting the legislatures of Tennessee and Kentucky, then at Cincinnati, to come on to Columbus.

OH! FOR JUST A LITTLE SUNSHINE!
HOW I WISH SPRING WOULD COME—SO I COULD GET THESE DINGY OLD CLOTHES OUT IN THE YARD.
HO, HO! THOSE CLOTHES ARE ACTUALLY MUSTY—THEY'VE HUNG INSIDE SO LONG.

I'M JUST SICK ABOUT THESE DINGY OLD CLOTHES.
LOOK—HERE'S A NEW SOAP CALLED OXYDOL, THAT WILL GET THEM 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER.
OH, THAT'S ONE OF THOSE GRANULATED "SOAKING" SOAPS. BUT AREN'T THEY TERRIBLY HARSH? I TRIED ONE ONCE AND IT PRACTICALLY "ATE UP" THE CLOTHES.
THIS IS A NEW KIND THE IVORY SOAP PEOPLE MAKE—IT'S SAFE AS CAN BE. YET IT GETS CLOTHES WHITE AS SNOW!
A FEW MINUTES LATER
IT'S AMAZING! THE WASHER'S BEEN GOING NO TIME AT ALL—AND THEY'RE LOVELY WHITE.
AND OXYDOL ACTUALLY SEEMS TO BRIGHTEN COLORS INSTEAD OF FADE THEM. JUST LOOK HOW BRIGHT THIS PRINT DRESS IS—AND I'VE WASHED IT SCORES OF TIMES.

GUARANTEED! CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER
Even Though They Hang Inside All Winter Long
● It's true! Try Oxydol and see your winter washes 4 to 5 shades whiter . . . have them smell fresh and sweet as a day in June! Oxydol is a new, improved granulated soap developed by the makers of gentle Ivory and works on an entirely new principle. It is the result of a formula which makes mild, gentle soap 2 to 3 times whiter-washing than has modern soap, by actual test. And—a patented process which makes it far faster acting.
Oxydol does these four amazing things: (1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling, gives your hands fresh merry white with a quick rub. (2) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (3) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter. (4) So mild that it is used in the making of Ivory Flakes, Ivory Soap and Ivory Soap Chips.

"I have hopes for him," she told [illegible] when, in her room, I was helping [illegible] to collect her rather jumbled [illegible]. There's nothing like a [illegible] about on the head, con-[illegible]rete or abstract, to bring a cocky [illegible] to his senses. Allen's had his [illegible] to your solving that puzzle, and [illegible] be good now, for quite a spell [illegible] a spell. But it's you, dear [illegible], who will have to tell him of [illegible] perfect prize plan I have [illegible].

"I? Oh Lillian!" I was conscious [illegible] my voice was panicky. "In the [illegible] place, he wouldn't listen to any [illegible] I proposed. Just consider the [illegible] manner with which he has [illegible] me since I came home."

"I know, but he's ready to forgive [illegible] now, if you're sufficiently humble [illegible] and speak softly to him."

Madge Reluctant

She grinned impishly at me and [illegible] dodged my rush at her. [illegible] she spoke with a quick transition to seriousness.

"I'm sorry, Madge, but this [illegible]'s on your doorstep. You're the [illegible]chaine of this house, and any [illegible] request about the conduct of its affairs must come from you; not from me. Otherwise, Allen might think [illegible] are angry at him; that you are afraid of him; that you are in love with him—" I saw that her impish humor was returning, and I spoke sharply.

"Will you stop?" I demanded petulantly. "I know you're right, of course that any request concerning the house while I am gone must come from me, but what in the world can I have to ask Allen Drake?"

She looked me up and down airily.

"You really aren't very bright," she said caustically. "Suppose you tell Allen the history of the tension existing between your mother-in-law and your maid, and your fear of explosions while you are gone. Ask him if he can't figure out some way to keep Mother Graham from scalping Katie more than once every three days. Trust that lad, if he makes up his mind to undertake any task, even an odd job like that, Mother Graham will find herself so circumscribed and enmeshed and entertained that she won't have a minute to bedevil Katie. Don't you think it's worth trying? Asking Allen, I mean."

"It would be, if he weren't so—" "Pesky, mean, ornery, devilish—any adjective you choose," she retorted. "He's all of them, but he's also terribly sensitive where you're concerned. Most women he treats with lofty contempt, and their opinion of him matters no whit. But he's always had a weak spot where you are concerned.

"Your father is holding him responsible for your safety, and you strayed away from the fold. Honestly, Madge, I think before you go away—you may never see him again, you know, for when this stunt is finished, he'll vanish into thin air again—you really ought to give him an apology, and ask him a favor, the surest way of restoring his self-respect and his good humor."

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

GLAMOUR—WHAT IS IT?

"Everybody must have "glamour" these days. "It," sex-appeal, personality, magnetism—all these may help. But you may have the whole lot, and not have glamour!

"Glamorous" once voted the most beautiful word in the English language, is now almost as much of a popular affliction as the word "intriguing." It is used to describe everything attractive, from a claret-punch to the bride's trousseau. And from a new coiffure to a royal romance.

What is glamour? It's more than "It" or magnetism, and it doesn't necessarily include beauty. It is a mysterious something that either nature or accident or your publicity agent wraps around you. A something which shines through you and shimmers around you, so that everybody is aware of it the moment you enter a room.

It is what Garbo and Robert Taylor and Jean Harlow have been endowed with—while many other actors and actresses just as brilliant and just as famous and successful have somehow skipped it.

Unlike beauty and charm and magnetism, glamour can be built up and cultivated. Given a few good looks, a little personality and a talent for wearing beautiful clothes, and a good publicity agent can get almost any young woman into the class of "glamour girls."

Nobody can deny that both Peggy Joyce and Gloria Vanderbilt are glamours, each in her way. But so was Peaches Browning.

Napoleon, the little man with the round tummy, was so glamorous that every schoolboy wants to emulate him and chooses him as an ideal; whereas you never heard of a schoolboy choosing Wellington as an ideal. Perhaps he didn't have as good a press-agent.

The "Glamour Girls" of history have been many—Helen of Troy, Cleopatra, Sappho, The Queen of Sheba, Nell Gwynn, Joan of Arc, Pocahontas, Mary Queen of Scots, Madame Pompadour — but there seems to be no glamour about Queen Elizabeth, Miss Bloomer, Belva Lockwood or Hetty Green.

Roget classes glamour with bewitchment and enchantment. Yet many a husband-shooter has been dressed up and publicized until she acquired a sort of glamour and was showered with proposals of marriage. And even the late Mr Dillinger, it seems, had his "glamour" for those who admire daredevils. Yet, he was hardly "enchanting" or "bewitching." Just a glamour-boy!

Sarah Bernhardt, with a plain face and figure, was one of the most glamorous women who ever lived. Yet Eleonora Duse, equally as great an artiste, had no glamour whatever. Lillian Russell was the "glamour-girl" of her day; and no younger, better or more beautiful actress has ever out-glamoured her.

So, what is this mysterious thing called "glamour?" And how do you get it? You figure it out!

U. S. TO PROBE PLANE CRASH FATAL TO 11

Public Inquiry Will Try To Determine Whether Victims Survived Plunge.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12—A department of commerce airline inspector said today puzzling circumstances in the plunge of a huge transport into San Francisco bay, fatal to 11, would be studied at a public inquiry, probably starting tomorrow.

The hearing and others will seek to confirm whether the plane's occupants survived the crash only to drown; whether the landing gear was up or down; whether the wing flaps, designed to slow the landing speed, were adjusted.

The luxury liner of United Airlines, inbound from Los Angeles, fell into the bay Tuesday night after peering over Millis field and circling to return.

Autopsy Surgeon Dr. J. N. Dalliel said the body of wealthy Mark Fontana of San Francisco, one of four recovered, indicated "he was fully conscious and even dazed—after the terrific impact but as to how long he fought I cannot say."

The Oakland Tribune reported investigators found the landing gear had not been let down and the wing flaps were not adjusted so as to slow the landing speed.

The seven missing passengers either were thrown or struggled out of a great tear in the cabin roof.

Graham, Morrow county engineer in charge of the work, will submit tentative plans and interested landholders will state their reasons for desiring the improvement.

The project would involve cleaning and some construction work on an eight-mile length of the creek and would provide drainage for several square miles of farm land. Leo J. Cusick, president of the Marion county commissioners, has been named chairman of the joint county commission.

OHIO BUSINESS GROUP WANTS NO NEW TAX

Claims Resources Exceed Estimated Expenditures of State Government.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Outlining greater resources than estimated current figures, the inter-organization conference asserted today that operations could be conducted during the 1937-38 without increasing taxes.

The report of the Ohio business conference was followed by a week later announcement by Gov. Martin L. Davey that new taxes might be necessary to provide an extra $10,000,000 to finance poor and flood relief.

Pointing out that the 1936 tax bill was $470,000,000—enough in state and local taxes to pay the food bill of every family in the state"—the conference reported.

"Careful and conservative estimates have been made of the income that may be expected from tax laws already enacted. Similarly, the demands upon the state have been analyzed, and the conclusion reached is that the state can properly discharge its full obligation without the necessity of imposing new taxes."

Estimating receipts from tax sources, liquor profits, aid from the federal government for old age pensions and citing an unencumbered balance of $500,000 in the general fund, the conference outlined net available receipts at $130,000,000 and estimated disbursements at $128,710,000 to support its recommendation of "no new taxes."

The estimated disbursements did not include appropriations for state divisions, such as the highway department, which the conference classed as self-supporting. The highway department gets the largest appropriation of any one state department.

COMMITTEE TO URGE FARM TENANTS' AID

President To Get Report Recommending Broad Program of Federal Assistance.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—A long term national program for reform in farm tenancy will reach President Roosevelt early next week, but it was learned today it would not contain the views of Rexford G. Tugwell, former undersecretary of agriculture.

The report was completed late yesterday by the special committee appointed by Mr. Roosevelt last December, just as Tugwell resigned from government service. Its contents were held confidential.

The President appointed Secretary Wallace chairman of the committee and Tugwell as a member. Tugwell did not attend either the organization meeting or the committee's final session at which the report was drafted.

Secreary Wallace has suggested that a long term tenancy program must be much broader than federal financial aid to tenant farmers who are capable of becoming independent farm owners.

Wallace has proposed legislative measures to control landlord-tenant relations, long term farm leases and a program of education supervision and assistance for tenants unfitted to become independent owners.

The resettlement administration under Tugwell started a model tenants program.

THREE HONORED IN GRANGE PROGRAM

Memorials to Washington, Lincoln and Father Oliver Kelley, founder of the grange movement, featured a meeting of United Grange Thursday night at Claridon school. Miss Georgia Kraner, lecturer, was in charge of the program.

Highlight of the observance was presentation of an American flag to the grange by Miss Alfreda George. Also on the program was reading of "A February Poem" by Miss Dorothy George, a reading on Lincoln and Washington by Mrs. Jenella Gillson, piano duet by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walson, reading by Eugene Douce on "Father Kelley, the Grange Patron." A song by the grange concluded the social session.

Master John Ruth presided at the business meeting, at which two applications for membership were received. The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Florence Hensel in charge of refreshments.

Marion's New Industry

This is a happy week end for Marion as it marks what may be regarded as one of the most important and significant developments in the city's history

Addition of a well established and efficiently managed industrial concern such as the Defiance Pressed Steel Co to the city's resources is in itself unmistakable evidence of a forward trend now and an indication of continued advancement in the future The event is made even more auspicious however by the circumstances surrounding it and the spirit of enthusiasm and goodwill demonstrated in all proceedings connected with Marion's acquisition of this new industry

From the beginning officials of the company took a friendly and favorable view of Marion and gave evidence of a desire to locate here Marion people were agreeably impressed with the heads of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co and recognized the business as one which would be a valuable asset to the city It is on this friendly basis and with this feeling of confidence in one another that representatives of the city and the Defiance company have worked together since negotiations started and throughout all arrangements for opening of the plant here

The three day official opening is a splendid culminating expression of this fine spirit of friendliness and understanding By inviting people of Marion to visit the plant and to get acquainted with its operation as well as the people who operate it the management of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co is demonstrating a policy of public relationship most beneficial in the conduct of industry In doing this the company makes known that it wishes to establish and maintain mutual interests with the community and thus secure both the industry and Marion a maximum of benefits It is a human and neighborly attitude which is certain to win immediate and cordial response from the public

In that spirit Marion joins hands with the Defiance Pressed Steel Co to pledge hearty goodwill and cooperation and to express the wish for a happy and prosperous future

Abraham Lincoln

Lincoln's birthday—like Washington's later this month—is properly an occasion for meditation

Abraham Lincoln was a deeply thoughtful man whom circumstances and his own ambition caused to be an important political figure

He was President of the United States during its gravest political and economic crisis His life was made a sacrifice to the impassioned bitterness of his times

Mr Lincoln's most prominent characteristic as a politician was humility He understood fully that he was as nothing compared with the tremendous forces of the nation which variously hated and revered him

His humility helped him to see that the future of his country was more important than the few years of his tumultuous administration of its sadly confused affairs. He is consequently respected today as perhaps no other American ever will be respected—not for doing great things but for abiding by great principles which outlived the excited demands and deeds of his contemporaries

Time To Reflect.

If the President had not thrown judicial reform into the congressional midst neutrality very likely would be the current topic of debate As it is neutrality legislation has been shoved into a corner

Delay will give congressmen time to reflect on the problem While their conscious minds are grappling with something else their sub-conscious minds will be groping for a firmer hold on the implications of neutrality legislation

From their reflection may march one important conclusion Neutrality in an interdependent world is a hope not a fact The permanent neutrality legislation which will be adopted some time during the coming session no matter which one of several proposals is chosen will represent a desire to keep the United States neutral not fulfillment of the desire

Real neutrality is a state of mind which cannot prevail It follows therefore that the only real neutrality which can exist in the United States in event of a future conflict abroad will be the result of persistent encouragement of an attitude of neutrality among the people The most any law can do is to assist a popular attitude If and when congressmen reach that conclusion they can quit trying to save the country with a law which will be meaningless unless it is backed up solidly by public opinion

Who Lost The Auto Strike?

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star)

WASHINGTON Feb 12 — Efforts to claim victory in the auto strike are amusing because neither General Motors nor John Lewis won and instead the American people lost

For the auto strike was one of the costliest in history The workers in Michigan and elsewhere whose wages were reduced to zero for several weeks lost the strike No union is going to pay them back the money they lost nor is the purchasing power represented by the many millions of dollars of payroll going to be recovered for the communities in which the auto workers live

The question naturally arises whether the strike gained anything for anybody, and whether it could really have been shortened Anyone who examines the terms of settlement will find almost all to the credit on that General Motors granted at the final settlement and John Lewis obtained thereby is precisely what could have been got on January 4 last when the peace parleys began in Governor Murphy's office

The mistake made by Mr Lewis was in breaking up these peace negotiations by a demand for exclusive recognition for his union as a bargaining agency This was untenable from the outset and many labor union strategists say that the technique of a strike is never to demand something that cannot be comprised and which leaves no side open to attack if a retreat has to come

As for the General Motors company its original mistake was in insisting that negotiations be carried on in plants instead of with the one general management at Detroit however from which the company could comply promptly enough to escape the blame for prolonging the strike

Law and order didn't come out so well in the strike but if the truth is ever confessed by the union leaders they will be compelled to admit that the granting of an injunction against the sit-down strikers was a very vital point in the whole strike strategy because the Lewis union was put in an embarrassing position with public sentiment On the one hand to withdraw the sit down strikers was to acknowledge defeat and lose the only leverage the auto strikers really possessed as a minority but on the other hand to defy the injunction itself was to swing public opinion from the sit down strikers

Quick Settlement Imperative

The more it became apparent that the local police at Flint would have to be augmented for a battle in which the militia might have to join the more it was evident that the strike had come to a quick conclusion In this respect the pressure of the injunction itself worked the strike negotiations to a climax and yet there was no pitched battle or open warfare such as might have come if the negotiations carried on by the governor had come to naught

Governor Murphy was in a tight spot throughout He was carrying the load of an administration at Washington which had messed up the situation considerably and he was facing in Michigan demands for enforcement of the injunction which no one knew might mean a tragic ending so while he stalled off the sheriff and angry citizens of Flint and in this sense law and order may be considered to have been ignored the fact remains that "sit-down" strikes now have been widely condemned by public opinion and by a court of law so the next time they occur in other situations the demands for the use of evasion orders will be prompt and doubtless effective immediately

There were from an academic standpoint gains by both General Motors and John Lewis in the final settlement Mr Lewis succeeded in focussing the attention of workers generally—his prospective members—on what can be done by an inclusion minority and he did succeed in getting recognition for his own membership as a group in any general parleys on wages and hours with a big industrial corporation

From a labor standpoint every concession no matter how small is magnified in a membership drive but the letter from General Motors and the agreement itself make it quite clear that no exclusive bargaining rights have been granted and that the rights of the Lewis group as well as the non Lewis workers will have to be defined by Governor Murphy himself as the future mediator during a period of six months It's a sort of compulsory arbitration for a limited period on a collateral issue—how a minority can bargain without injuring the majority in the plant

G M Maintains Point

General Motors on the other hand succeeded in maintaining successful that it would not recognize any group as the exclusive bargaining agency for non union or any other workers in their plants who might be affiliated with the A F of L This principle has an important bearing on the future of industrial warfare and much will depend on whether the Wagner labor relations act is declared unconstitutional If it is held valid then some amendment of the law is bound to be compelled by public opinion so that the rights of the minority will be protected against a majority or vice versa These issues are far from settled

Basically the strike is a sad example of how political government refusing to act through federal mediation machinery prolonged a strike that could have been settled locally namely by the governor of Michigan weeks ago if the national administration had not got mixed up in the politics of the Lewis controversy with the A F of L as to the form of union that shall represent workers for collective bargaining in America

Collective bargaining of course now has been more widely advertised than ever and the public has been educated on various aspects of modern labor warfare including the technique of sit down strikes but if the lesson learned is that reason and persuasion and impartial administration at Washington can do more to forward the cause of the workers than anything else the strike may not have been fought altogether in vain

A Great Political Blunder

By BARRETT L. MANSELL

A GREAT deal of discussion has been carried on the last several days pointing out the danger the nation stands in through possible acceptance of President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the supreme court This ground has been sketched in fairly definite lines Subsequent debate and articles will bring out this danger more strongly

As a side issue to the danger which confronts the country in the line of approach which points out the political danger President Roosevelt has chosen to invoke—the danger of a gigantic political blunder This exposition will consider that blunder

When President Roosevelt proposes a compromise It's news Compromise hasn't been a presidential habit the last four years

If compromise seems a strange term for the President's plan enabling him to pack the supreme court with a ready made majority consider the nature of the proposal

The sweeping vote of confidence which Mr Roosevelt obtained last November was interpreted by him and his advisers as a renewed mandate to proceed with the new deal Part of the mandate as interpreted in administrative circles was to take remedial action against the supreme court one of the foreseen effects of victory which the President's opponents viewed with deepest alarm

The court's adverse rulings in cases entailing constitutionality of new deal legislation had been a grave handicap to furtherance of Mr Roosevelt's desire for centralization of governmental authority in Washington His own natural resentment was but a pale reflection of the hostility to the court which had sprung up in leftist circles striving to force the President into more radical positions than he was ready to take

This it came about that in the presidential campaign the opposition frequently challenged Mr Roosevelt for a clear statement of his intentions regarding the supreme court It was to sound reasons for believing that if secret or later Mr Roosevelt would ask for legislation to curtail in one way or another the courts power to invalidate new deal laws

The President's political opponents felt sure if they could get an open declaration from him the result would be to line up public opinion on the court's side But their man was too foxy for them Mr Roosevelt adroitly skirted the issue He confined himself to restatement of his legislative aims refusing to say how he intended to fulfill them He did not go even so far as his own party platform which said the party would seek such clarifying amendment as will assure to the legislatures of the several states and to the congress the power to enact those laws which legislatures and federal legislature shall find necessary

The presidential campaign policy had the effect of hastening apprehension about Mr Roosevelt's real intentions His silence seemed to give support to the wildest ideas imaginable The field of possibility was wide open and certainly was too dreadful to imagine

One gentleman in congress had proposed that any federal judge who declares any act to be unconstitutional is hereby declared to be guilty of violating the constitutional requirement of good behavior upon which his tenure of office depends and shall be held that decision ipso facto to have vacated office

That was an extreme statement but it is a fair sample of what many citizens of the United States feared President Roosevelt might be willing to do to force the supreme court into line All kinds of proposals were being discussed

Some would have caused the court to muster a two-thirds majority before any act of congress could be declared unconstitutional Some would have taken from the court its appellate jurisdiction over cases involving congressional enactments It was proposed that congress give itself the right to re enact invalidated legislation over the court veto

There was another school of opinion which asserted as does the platform of the Democratic party that the issue of extending federal authority should be resolved clearly in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment Members of this school pointed out what many critics of the supreme court were forgetting that it is no the courts function to determine national policy but to interpret the language of the Constitution Therefore instead of torturing that language into strained constructions the Constitution should be amended and clarified if the people so desired In that event it would become the supreme courts duty to uphold the amendment

A third group composed of conservative elements did not wish to consider any measures for alterations It was satisfied with the Constitution and with the supreme court

Thus it begins to be plain that President Roosevelt's plan for repacking the court is completely satisfactory to no one The radicals who wanted to hamstring the court and turn over the country to the whims of a frightened and compliant congress controlled by their lobbies will end up by calling it a milk and water substitute for the strong drink they crave

The conservatives who want the supreme court and the Constitution to remain as they are are deeply disturbed

The moderates and liberals believing the momentous issue raised by the Roosevelt administration's desire to widen the scope of federal authority should be decided by public opinion regard the President's plan simply as an undemocratic attempt to circumvent the question They

Congressmen See The Light

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON Feb 12—There are all kinds of ways of making congressmen see the broader aspects of President Roosevelt's court repacking program

It is quite possible for example that some of those senators who have been called down privately to Attorney General Cummings office since Tuesday have come away with new light on the subject At least they have reported to their colleagues they can now see that far more than the question of controlling the supreme court may be involved as far as they personally are concerned

Of course Mr Cummings would never lobby among senators for the program of his boss but he cannot escape the fact that there are about eight federal judicial vacancies and try as he may he cannot avoid consulting senators from those districts about recommending appointees He need not point out that a senators candidate will have a much better chance of getting the appointment if the senator will support the President's reorganization program Anyone with intelligence enough to be a senator knows that

More than one has been deeply impressed

Suggestion

Congressmen calling at the White House lately also report that they have been more affected by what they saw than what they heard

More than one has noticed a large book on the executive desk containing details of the plan for government reorganization The book is said to contain a list of jobs which will have to be filled or refilled if and when the reorganization goes through

Necessities

The President really had to take hold of the situation because his whole system of executive lobbying with congress had buckled under the strain of the court proposal

Knee weakness has spread like a plague among the usual congressional lobbyists of the White House Many a congressional leader upon whom the President usually depended has developed a heart too heavy for this particular business They are going through the motions of rocking the Presidential whip but they made little secret of their listlessness at the outset

The heavy work fell first upon the two official presidential lobbyists Charles West and Jimmy Roosevelt but it was too heavy Mr West has been getting along only reasonably well and Jimmy not at all As this is young Roosevelt's initial introduction into lobbying he has been going along to the capitol with West more or less as a sightseer But even as an accompanist his presence seems to have failed to bring desired results upon legislators There are not able to acclimate themselves readily to Talleyrand trades with the young son of the President

Most youngsters when they begin to ponder about neckties are wont to form mental pictures of the perfect man about town The elegant who is ultrasophisticated slightly blase belongs to the proper clubs patronize the best tailors attends prize fights and cocking main knows exactly how to pat a top hat into correct angle and wear a muffler with that certain je ne sais quoi This figure of imagery would symbolize both worldliness and ennui My nearest idea to him in the flesh would be a composite of Ben Ali Haggin and William Rhinelander Stewart.

Lincoln Saved State's Credit

By LOUIS J HUMPHREY
International News Service Correspondent.
Copyright 1937, by International News Service.

SPRINGFIELD Ill Feb [illegible] pioneer Abe Lincoln [illegible] once trudged six miles to [illegible] a few pennies in the main responsible for keeping Illinois from losing the company of hatters and commonwealths which had repudiated their debts

Documents brought to light in the archives division of the office of Secretary of State Edward Hugne today—the 128th anniversary of Lincoln's birth—prove and give credit to Lincoln's statesmanship for solving the state's financial dilemma.

A century ago the state was young and ambitious. A program was adopted by which Illinois was to construct railroads from Cairo to Galena via Vandalia Shawneetown Decatur and Bloomington with a rail link to the Lake Michigan canal which at that time ended at Ottawa from Alton to Mt Carmel from Alton to Shawneetown and from Quincy to a point on the state line near La Fayette Ind Various rivers in the state also were to be improved to permit navigation

So the legislature approved an expenditure upward of $10 000 000 to finance this program going to English and American bankers for the money

Interest Problem

On January 1841 interest on the debt totalling $100 000 was due and the states annual revenue at that time was scarcely more than one half amount Gov Thomas Carlin commemorated by the city of Carlinville which was named in his honor called the general assembly into special session Nov 3 1841 to devise ways and means of meeting this $100 000 payment

When the session started a flock of cure all bills were introduced One of these was sponsored by Lincoln It provided for a property tax of 40 cents on the $100 valuation with the minimum land valuation for such a tax fixed at an acre The bill was based on how many mills on the dollar would be of taxation the first legislation of that kind ever proposed in Illinois

The house finance committee voted Lincoln's bill out unfavorably

So the session dragged on and on with nothing done and on Dec 1 a merger with the regular session Inaction followed and on the night of Dec 10 the house sent word to the senate that it would stay in session until midnight to act on any proposed remedy the senate could devise The senate promptly sent the problem back to the house

March 1 the adjournment deadline was nearing and still nothing had been done

Then desperate the legislature named a committee of nine to hunt a solution Lincoln was a member of the committee which after long deliberation brought forth a series of bills a part of which were passed

Lincoln's Plan Approved

Chief among those passed was a bill for a property tax levy based on the mill system and it became effective Feb 7 1841

Recent comparison made by the state archives department shows that this bill was identical with Lincoln's original tax bill except for two words

These two words simply changed the amount of the tax from 40 cents to 10 cents on the $100 valuation and fixed the minimum land value per acre for tax purposes at $3 instead of $4 an acre

The nation at that time was in the aftermath of a financial panic and with money short and conditions unstable the state's ambitious improvement program collapsed

The tax bill passed failed to bring in sufficient revenue to pay off the interest and bonds by 1848 it was incorporated in the new state constitution adopted that year

Measure Attacked

Prior to adoption of the new constitution however Gov Thomas Ford who succeeded Governor Carlin wrote a history of Illinois in which he declared that Illinois repudiated its debts He blamed Lincoln chiefly for the measure following collapse of the improvement program and also for Lincoln of log rolling to secure removal of the state capital from Vandalia to Springfield

The state's finances continued at a low ebb and when the debt was arrived the commonwealth's debt was aggregated between $13 000 000 and $14 000 000

Things picked up however and values boomed business was good prices bettered popular unrest was greatly lessened and as a result property tax drawn by Lincoln's bill produced sufficient revenue that by 1867 two years before assassination the debt was written paid in full and the last of its bills

COURT PLAN TERMED POLITICAL BLUNDER

...plan for adding ...members to the ...preme court in the ...two deaths or re...tirement of justices over 70 years of age is in effect an unprecedented request for a privilege which came in a decade was to previous Presidents.

Theodore Roosevelt appointed Justices Holmes, Day and Moody. President Taft appointed five justices during the first two years of his term—Lurton, Hughes, Van Devanter, Lamar and White. President Wilson appointed Justice McReynolds, Brandeis and Clarke. Justice Clarke incidentally retired in the early 1920's and is still living in California.

President Harding appointed Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justices Sutherland, Butler and Sanford. President Coolidge appointed Justice Stone. President Hoover appointed Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Roberts and Cardozo. So now Mr. Roosevelt in order to exercise the privilege of... goes to the extreme of asking for the disputed privilege of packing the court with six new members, a whom presumably would share his viewpoint.

It seems reasonable to expect before that when popular discussion of the question raised by the President's proposal has continued long enough to crystallize opinion, it will be found Mr. Roosevelt has satisfied no one and offended everyone. The radicals wanted something more drastic than an artificially created new... majority which might prove undependable. The conservatives wanted the retention of the status quo. The moderates and liberals wanted a chance to make self government meaningful by proposal of a constitutional amendment which would have settled the issue of an enlarged federal authority once and for all.

Mr. Roosevelt chose instead to make a "compromise." Judged by appearances at this writing he made a bad selection which threatens to be viewed as the greatest political blunder of his presidential career.

CINCINNATI DRINKS FROM ITS FAUCETS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Some 450,000 residents of this Ohio river metropolis drank pure water "out of the faucet" today for the first time in nearly three weeks.

Health authorities lifted an emergency flood order requiring 10-minute boiling of all water intended for human consumption.

The city's water service failed when the Ohio river reached 73 feet on Jan. 26. For 10 days thereafter a tap-supply was available for only two and six hours daily and then only to low lying parts of the city.

Corps Band Plays Important Role in Salvation Army Activities Here

ONE of the most familiar organizations to Marion residents is the Salvation Army corps band which is heard in the open air services in the business section of the city on Saturdays and Sunday nights and on special occasions throughout the year.

The band plays an important part in the Army's religious program and adds materially to the civic activities of the city by taking part in patriotic parades and programs and visiting the various institutions where programs are given throughout the year.

The band is a major activity in the Army's program and the support of the Salvation Army campaign to raise $5000 to carry on the organization work in Marion which will be launched Monday night will benefit the band as well as the other activities of the organization.

Approximately 150 men and women will take part in the drive which is sponsored by the advisory board of the Army with Elmer L. Weimer acting as general campaign chairman.

Wide Age Range

Organized two years ago the band has grown to a membership of more than 20 ranging in age from 10 years to nearly 70. Lois Danner who plays a cornet is 10 years old and Asa Hays who plays the ... bass is 68 years old. Mr. Hays whose membership in the Salvation Army dates back 20 years has been active in corps work and playing in the band during the various times the Salvation Army in Marion has had a band. Until recently when he became afflicted with rheumatism Mr. Hays job was to play the bass drum. Despite his years and physical ailment he is present for every rehearsal and every appearance of the band. He formerly lived at Ironton.

Playing in the Salvation Army band means finding time for practice as many of the members attend school and several are members of the school band. This has proved no handicap. Captain Rothwell Stickley head of the corps says attendance at practice and the week-end service is practically 100 per cent throughout the year. Rehearsals are held each Wednesday night at the citadel on West Center street. In addition to playing in Marion the band visits various Salvation Army corps throughout the state. Among these visits were trips to Lima, Findlay, Bucyrus, Athens and Tiffin and their most recent visit and a high light of the year was a trip to Cincinnati about a month ago where they played in the Salvation Army hall. The trips are made in cars donated by the members of the corps.

Noted Musicians Produced

One of the staunchest champions of Salvation Army bands in the country is Frank Simon famous radio bandsman and president of the American Bandmasters association. Captain Stickley said in discussing Army band activities. This famous musician has several excellent musicians who get their early training in Salvation Army bands and who are now heard regularly on popular broadcasts. One Salvation lad alumnus is Merle Johnston one of the country's finest saxophonists, whose rendition is a regular network feature. His brother Roy who also played in an Army band is first trumpeter with Vincent Loper orchestra. The Johnston brothers played in Boston recently where their father is a Major in the Army.

Fritz W. G. Leidzen chief arranger whose work is played by leading orchestras is Emil Soderstrom. Hal Kemps tuba player, Jack Shirra, received his early training in a Salvation Army band his father being the bandmaster of the Cincinnati Citadel band. With Frank Simon himself is a former Salvation Army bandmaster. Lamont B. Glover whose father was Brigadier Glover of Australia. Glover is assistant conductor of Simon's Armco band assistant director of the band department of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and one of the finest trombonists in the country.

It is interesting to know that the Army today boasts of a total of 10,709 bandsmen and 11,647 songsters all of whom give their services on a voluntary basis seeking only by their music to spread the glorious evangel cheer and uplift. Captain Stickley observed in discussing Salvation Army Bands.

Retractable side wheels have been added to a motorcycle by a Seattle inventor to make riding safer on slippery streets and to enable the motorcycle to be towed readily.

JOB HUNTERS ALSO PESTERED LINCOLN

Postoffices Rivaled Forts as Sources of Woe for Civil War President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Feb 12 A storage hoarded congressmen found comfort today in recalling on Abraham Lincoln's birthday that he too had trouble with job hunters

One representative browsing among the Lincolniana in the library of congress discovered this anecdote

An administration senator early in the Civil war netting Lincoln appeared dejected inquired

Have you heard bad news from Fort Sumpter?

No answered the President sadly it's the postoffice at Jonesville Mo

Lawmakers subsequently repeated visits of the same constituent related the story about Lincoln's persistent bald headed caller from Philadelphia

Did you ever try this stuff on your hair asked the President taking a bottle from a cabinet

No said the visitor I haven't

Well do so continued Lincoln and come back in eight or 10 months and tell me how it works

He got rid of him for eight or 10 months

Long suffering listeners to the intricate legislative proposals of colleagues told of Lincoln's patience with Robert Dale Owen the spiritualist who read him a long manuscript

Asked how he liked it the President replied

Well for those who like that sort of thing I should think it is just the sort of thing they would like

BATTLE OF MADRID A SEE-SAW AFFAIR

Each Side Advances Then Retreats as Rebels Try To Surround Capital

By The Associated Press

Spain's see-saw of war tilted back and forth today for both Fascist insurgents and the Socialist government—one up and the other down then around the other way Death stalked earth sea and sky

Shouting Moorish troops in the ranks of Madrid's Fascist besiegers pointed an insurgent drive which established a new 10 mile front along the Jarama river southeast of the city at a heavy cost of life for the defenders

The move left still unsettled the question of which side controls the Madrid Valencia road Each claims it Complete encirclement of Madrid is the Fascist objective

Socialist artillery sought to break the incompleted Fascist ring of the northwest with a bombardment that failed to dislodge insurgents from fresh positions in the university city section The government reported its air fighters shot five Fascist planes out of the skies on the outskirts of the city

Insurgents streamed back into the west park section of Madrid after low flying planes raked the sector with machine gun fire and Socialist infantrymen mopped up with hand grenades This was but one of several struggles over the barricades of the city

A Fascist-controlled radio station at Seville broadcast that insurgents had captured Francisco Melha, president of the popular tribunal of Valencia who the announcement said was responsible for more than 5 000 executions

The German government raised the status of its mission to the Spanish Fascist junta from legation to embassy

Union Group Holds Theater, Claiming City Failed To Grant Proper Protection.

By The Associated Press

ANDERSON Ind Feb 12—Approximately 300 members of the United Automobile Workers of America lolled in seats and snoozed in the orchestra pit of a previously unused theater here today to protest against what they termed the lack of civil protection for union assemblages

Charles B Salyer union attorney declared the crowd would remain in the theater six months if necessary to obtain proper protection

He asserted the union would file suit to unseat the mayor later in the day for failure to afford proper protection for members of the union

The union members gathered at the theater last night for a strike victory celebration Police said a few rocks were thrown and several fist fights resulted when a crowd of approximately 500 anti unionists attempted to break up the meeting

Most of the Anderson police Chief Joseph Carney said were on duty outside of the theater to maintain order

Salyer claimed three shots were fired into the theater during the disorder and that several windows were broken Police made no comment on this report

Chief Carney said no one had been hurt seriously

Salyer said he had requested Gov M Clifford Townsend to send national guardsmen

He explained that the governor had made no promises

The governor has stated that he would not send troops to Anderson unless aid was requested by civil and county authorities

Mayor Harry R Baldwin announced he had told the governor that no outside help was needed at present

HOPKINS SAYS WPA MAKES IDLE MEN FIT

Tells of Work Given Unemployed To Preserve Their Ability.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Feb 12—Filling the unemployed for jobs in private industry Administrator Harry L Hopkins said today has been one of three principles of the federal work relief program

We had to give the jobless the kind of work which would preserve restore or increase their working ability and thus make them better competitors for private jobs he said in making public a summary of information on which officials based the program

The other two objectives of the works progress administration Hopkins said were to give people work and to give each community the sort of public improvements and services which its officials wanted

The summary showed 6 402 000 persons were eligible for WPA jobs at the start of 1936 when it was prepared

This total he said does not mean the WPA could have employed all 6 402 000 even if appropriations were sufficient because of rules which forbid hiring more than one worker in any family

More than one third of the total were women and nearly four fifths of the male workers were heads of families They represented 160 occupational classifications

POPE PIUS XI MARKS 15 YEARS AS PONTIFF

Gives Benediction to Victor Emmanuel as 'King and Emperor of Ethiopia"

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY Feb 12—Pope Pius observing the 15th anniversary of his coronation gave his apostolic benediction to Victor Emmanuel today as King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia

The Pontiff still confined to wheeled divan thus returned the kingemperor's anniversary greetings by extending full recognition to Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia

The Holy Father was in excellent spirits as he granted audiences to distinguished prelates who came to extend congratulations

A fairly comfortable night's rest and the fact that his ankles of pain were growing less gladdened the anniversary for the Pontiff although it was in sad contrast to last year's resplendent ceremonies when the Pope surrounded by his entire suite attended pontifical mass in the Sistine chapel

Visitors noticed that the furrows of his face and his pallor betrayed the effects of many weeks of serious illness

VISITORS VIEW NEW DEFIANCE CO. PLANT

pared for occupance On an inspection tour of the Marion Chamber of Commerce went over the top in a drive for $50 000 to furnish the company with a factory and funds to erect a building Preliminary work preceded the Defiance company officials from proceeding with plans to move machinery here which was fully a month later when construction work was put under way for the office building and a contractor started laying a concrete floor in the Power building's old foundry room Moving of machinery was well under way by the time these improvements were completed and a crew of men began several weeks reconditioning equipment that had been damaged in a fire that destroyed the company's plant in the spring of 192

High tension power service was carried to the plant water lines were laid to improve fire protection facilities the entire interior of the building was repainted at a cost of around $3 500 in the period of intensive work that has preceded the formal opening now under way

The company's products are used largely in the automotive industry Among the products it makes for automobile manufacturers are steering wheel cores hot water heaters metal covers for springs and a long list of stamped metal items One or more products of the company finds its way into the assembly of every automobile currently manufactured

Variety of Other Products

Other products have widespread use including metal cases for milk and beer bottles One customer has purchased more than 1 000 000 of the cases and they are used throughout this country and in many foreign countries especially in extreme hot climates where they are preferred to wooden ones as a matter of sanitation

Behind the huge program of operations carried on by the company and its employes which by next October are expected to number around 600 is $350 000 in invested capital The replacement value of the machinery and equipment is around $250 000 exclusive of valuable dies whose replacement cost would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars

The company is controlled by the executive officers and directors both in title and in control of common stock It is a closed corporation Most of the stock is in the hands of the third generations of the families originally holding it

The speed with which the company rallied from its destructive fire of last spring is a typical chapter in Defiance Pressed Steel Co history While part of the Defiance plant was still in flames the directors met on the porch of the home of one of the officers and mapped a general program to recover from the destructive fire and that program has been carried virtually to fulfillment

The unusual ability of the company and its executives to find some way has kept the concern in fact through periods of trial and disappointment that might have submerged a less vigorous organization For example prohibition came at a time when production centered largely around metal beer cases At one stroke the company was compelled to turn to new fields which it did by taking on a line of automobile products that has kept its employment up since that time The repeal of the prohibition amendment brought back the beer case business and since that time the concern has produced both cases and automotive products in addition to a long list of articles made in smaller volume

Lets Out Contracts

Virtually burned out the company last spring farmed out many of its contracts turning over production of many items to outside concerns Between 35 and 40 per cent of the company's business running on a $400 000 figure for a 12 month period now approaching its end has been handled in this manner

So far as steering wheels were concerned in company determined some days after the fire to continue producing them. Within a few days new equipment had been set up and production was continued. In cramped quarters the company's war employes turned out three-quarters of a million dollars in business between July 15 and Nov 31, meeting the disastrous fire problem at least slackening its activities except for the contracts farmed to other firms These contracts will return to the Marion plant early this year

The fire broke out in a pile of rubber hose for use on automobile hot water heaters either due to sparks from a grinder or from combustion It spread quickly through the plant and firemen handicapped by lack of sufficient water pressure and equipment were able to save only a small fraction of the plant. Office furniture and records quickly shoved into a fireproof vault were saved and the paint building and a storage shed were saved Estimates of the damage ranged around the $1 000 000 mark and most of the loss was covered by insurance measure which would require the officials to determine existing local wage scales before issuing projects for construction

The administration bill would allocate sales tax revenue to cut local government share about $3 000 000 by giving the state what was left after allotting $—000 for relief and $25 000 000 for public schools At present $ of each year goes for relief and the remainder to schools and local governments.

Oppose Tax Reallocation

County and municipal officials who opposed successfully Governor Davey's plan to have them match part of the stop-gap relief fund indicated they would seek to defeat the tax reallocation proposal and demand rejection of the matching plan in a permanent relief program to be drawn before April 15

The new budget program $42 050 less than the last biennium would appropriate approximately $36 000 000 for the highway department and set aside nearly $4 000 000 for the general revenue fund

Appropriations for state institutions would be increased a per cent Ohio State officials would get $8 511 87? or about $ 000 more than or the last two years when the governor vetoed many items in the university

Auto Steering Wheel Cores Made Here

Part of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co. machinery which turns out metal cores for between 40 and 45 per cent of the steering wheels used in automobile production are shown in the accompanying photograph. Huge coils of wire are the raw materials in this department, and completed cores like those on the floor are the finished product. The cores go to a composition manufacturer who coats them and prepares them for automobile manufacturers.

Pollen from a flower of the plant with which cross-breeding is desired is dusted into the stamenless flower. Scientists Seek Process for Man-Made Vegetables

FAST BUT FAULTY

This Indian cauliflower matures two months earlier than a good commercial variety and hence is less liable to be damaged by frost—but it is weak in the head.

SLOW BUT SPLENDID

This cauliflower has a good head but is subject to cold. Dr. C. F. Poole (above) hopes to produce a better plant by crossing it with the Indian cauliflower.

BY WILLIAM HORING
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Made-to-order vegetables are being produced here at the first government regional breeding laboratory opened under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones act.

Dr. C. F. Poole, laboratory cytologist, for instance, is working with cauliflower.

There is a good commercial variety of cauliflower which southern farmers no doubt would grow, he says, were it not for the fact that it matures late and hence is exposed to frost.

An Indian cauliflower which matures about two months earlier, but which does not have the good head of the American variety, has been imported.

Laboratory workers propose to cross the two plants with the hope of eventually combining the desirable traits of the American vegetable and the earliness of the Indian.

Watermelon Size Studied

From this strain, breeding stock could be produced for distribution to state agricultural units, which, in turn, would furnish it to farmers.

Another of the laboratory's objectives is to produce breeding stock for watermelons that would fit nicely into the average-size refrigerator and have a tough (but not thick) rind for shipping, a delicious taste and disease resistance.

Dr. Poole says melons from Asia and Africa were grown on the 772-acre laboratory tract last season and, because they have resistance against the wilt-causing pickle worm, they will be crossbred with native melons. The foreign melons, he says, do not have the delicious quality of domestic melons, but laboratory workers hope to obtain a fruit combining the good qualities of the American and the disease resistance of the foreign varieties.

Working On Tomatoes

At present laboratory workers are concerned with building up disease resistance in the tomato. Dr. Poole says disease constitute the chief problem of tomato growers in the south because the warmer climate allows them to linger from season to season.

Still another experiment is aimed at the establishment of a sweet corn hybrid that will thrive in the south. Fruition might mean an opening in this section for new canning industries and additional sales of profit for farmers.

Dr. E. L. Wade, senior specialist in charge, says the purpose of the laboratory is to [illegible]

FIRST SUSPECTS HELD IN MATTSON KILLING

Four Men, Woman, Questioned But Not Linked to Crime.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Feb. 12—Four men and a sandy haired woman were in jail in Washington today for questioning about the brutal kidnaping and slaying of 10-year-old Charles Mattson of Tacoma.

Seattle police held two ex-convicts from San Quentin, Calif., penitentiary and the woman companion of one.

A hitch-hiker was detained by Olympia police because, they said, he resembled the general description of the kidnaper.

Sheriff J. J. Patton of Columbia county and a state patrolman arrested a man at Dayton "on description."

No officers would say any of the prisoners had been definitely connected with the kidnaping of Dec. 27 or the slaying which came to light when the boy's body was discovered between Seattle and Everett Jan. 13.

Detective Capt. Wesley N. Miller announced one ex-convict from San Quentin and the woman, who said she was his wife, were arrested here last night and questioned about the abduction. The other ex-convict, H. A. Post, 32, seaman, still was being investigated, although state police and federal agents said they had "dropped him."

Detective Capt. Ray Hays at Olympia said the hitch-hiker had been photographed and prints sent to federal bureau of investigation agents in Tacoma.

Patton planned similar action at Dayton unless the prisoner explained his movements satisfactorily.

First Week—Christianity as a Way

THE NARROW WAY

Friday, Feb. 12: "Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life." Read Matthew 7:13-20.

The Second Book of Esdras, in the Apocrypha, has a fine picture of a noble city reached by one narrow road. The writer points out that citizens of the place love the open spaces of the city, not the narrowness of the road that leads to it. As he puts it of travelers thither, "The righteous shall suffer strait things and hope for wide."

Dr. Sperry

The Christian religion is often criticized today for its narrowness. It is said to forbid our wandering freely afield in this pleasant world. Why quarrel with this criticism or even attempt to deny it? No discoverer, scholar, artist, inventor, scientist, prophet, statesman has ever realized his ambition without paying the initial price of a necessary narrowness. Only superficial persons can allow themselves the doubtful luxury of a too tolerant morality and a too lenient self-indulgence.

A right-minded Christian accepts the strait things just because he "hopes for wide."

Prayer: Almighty God, who desirest for us life abundant, help us to understand that it is thy wisdom which has marked out for us each narrow way which goes to the City of God. Confirm us in our faith that it is thy purpose to lead us, in thy good time, through the length and breadth of that city; in Jesus' name. Amen.

DRIVING LICENSE TESTS ARRANGED

Patrolmen To Visit Marion and Other Counties.

The schedule of state highway patrol examinations for drivers holding temporary permits in Marion and other counties, was announced today by Lieut. R. W. Alvis of Findlay. The patrolmen will come here Monday to test Marion county drivers who reside out the city. The examination will be held at the city police station and only those drivers who do not come under the scope of similar tests given by the Marion police will be tested by the patrolmen.

The patrolmen will return to Marion the third Monday of each month to conduct similar tests. Similar tests will be held for Hardin county at the state highway garage in Kenton the second Wednesday of each month, for Union county, at the state highway garage in Marysville the third Tuesday, for Wyandot county at the court house in Upper Sandusky the third Wednesday, for Crawford at the state highway garage in Bucyrus the third Thursday.

A device has been invented to be hung from a refrigerator shelf to absorb odors and prevent them contaminating foods.

Jamaica has prohibited importation of ethyl alcohol except under permit by the superintending medical officer.

REGULARITY HELPS YOU AVOID COLDS

As a protection against colds, a healthy body is even better than umbrellas or overshoes.

But so many people let common constipation get them in a "run-down" condition — where they are likely to catch the first cold that comes along.

Keep feeling well this winter. Avoid constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day. It furnishes corrective "bulk," as well as vitamin B to tone up the intestines. Also iron for the blood.

In the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft mass, and gently sponges out the system. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In chronic cases, with each meal.

How much better to eat this food instead of taking weakening pills and drugs! Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Congratulations - -

TO THE GOOD FOLKS OF THE DEFIANCE PRESSED STEEL CO.

They hide the glamorous dame during a party, then Bigelow and Dr. Amatreitz, the physician and pal, move it to Vronski's bachelor home. police arrest Thorne Brydon, a wealthy chap, who hated Vronski. Dryden's wife, Lorna, disappears to make the police suspect her. Anne and Bigelow locate Lorna and check her off their list of suspects which still includes Karsunskoff and Baroness Dormastart.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Anne Has a Luncheon Date

BIGELOW slept late on the following morning. It was 12 o'clock when he rang for coffee and looked at the papers.

The search for Lorna Dryden was still on, apparently. The police reported that Dryden had had a letter from his wife posted in the metropolitan section of the city and they believed that she had taken cover not far from her own apartment. The city was being combed for her but as yet no trace of her had been discovered. In the letter she had given no reason for her disappearance, but had merely assured her husband that she was all right and that he need not worry about her. From this the police deduced that he knew the reason, that the disappearance had probably been planned between husband and wife before the arrest, and that the letter was intended simply to notify him that the plan had been successfully carried out. There were more pictures of Lorna Dryden and the public was urged to notify the police if they saw her....

Bigelow tossed aside the papers and telephoned Anne. But Walters informed him that Anne had gone out and said that Mrs. Phelps desired to speak with him. A few moments later his aunt was on the wire.

"Anne is lunching out, my dear," said Mrs. Phelps, "but I thought you might like to come and lunch with me?"

"Why don't you come down here and lunch with me?" urged Bigelow. "It will do you good to see a little life."

"Perhaps it would," she agreed. "Very well. I'll come at once. But don't order me a cocktail. Dry sherry is my measure."

"Dry sherry it shall be," he agreed. "Where is Anne lunching?"

"With Philip Whitelaw," answered his aunt. "See you at one, then, my dear."

"Right," answered Bigelow.

In Love With Anne?

He turned on his bath and considered himself in the mirror as he laid out his shaving things. He was not handsome, he knew, but he had always believed that he had some intelligence and his mother had frequently assured him that he had charm. She had congratulated herself about it taking most of the credit, as his father's family hadn't got it! And he was forced to accept her estimate as other women had testified to it in later years. He had always admired women enormously and had had a large acquaintance among them abroad. He had even played at being in love with some of them. But he had never been in love and he knew it.

Bigelow knew he was not handsome, but believed he had some intelligence and charm.

Was he in love with Anne, now, he wondered?

Certainly, the thought of her going off to lunch with Philip Whitelaw didn't please him. He had been conscious of a distinct depression when he had heard the news. But was he just being a dog in the manger about her or was he in love with her? Because of the vague family tie that bound them together, was he adopting a proprietary air toward her? Or was their constant association of the past few days becoming a habit?

He began to shave, trying to think of Anne dispassionately. She was lovely, no denying that. And she had a sense of humor. He liked to see her smile; it was ravishing. And she had a flair for clothes. Accustomed to going about with Parisiennes—as he was—he was still able to take pleasure in the effect Anne always managed to create. And now that he had become used to her friendly attitude toward all the world, he began to like it.

Unquestionably, then, he approved of Anne. But there was that business about the letters. What was he to make of that? Was there a man in her life of whom he knew nothing? Or was it Philip Whitelaw she was alluding to when she had said the secret was not hers to tell?

And what had she meant the night before by saying she had been thinking of giving up the studio? Did she mean that she would find another to replace it or that it was associated with a part of her life that was over? And just what part in her life had the studio played?

He could find no satisfactory answers to any of these questions but he told himself—as he soaked in his tub—that he could so steer the conversation when his aunt came that he could find out at least as much as she knew.

About Philip Whitelaw

He was waiting in the lobby when Mrs. Phelps arrived. His shadow, he noticed, was waiting in the lobby, too, but they ignored each other. He conducted his aunt to the bar for her sherry.

"Well," she announced, "this is the first time I have ever been in a bar room. Are you quite sure it's all right, my dear? In Paris, I know—but in New York—?"

"Quite all right," he assured her, smiling.

"A number of people know me here," she reminded him, as she reached for an olive.

"Anne didn't mention having a luncheon date with Whitelaw," he said, casually. "In fact, I was under the impression she was going to lunch with me."

"Really, dear?" murmured Mrs. Phelps. "Well, no doubt she didn't remember. Philip called her up rather early and she was going off any way as she had some shopping to do, she said, so she promised to meet him for lunch. To tell the truth, I was rather pleased about it. You don't know Philip, do you, dear?"

"No," answered Bigelow.

"I thought you might have met in Paris. Well, you must meet soon. His mother and I were at school together and I have always hoped that Philip and Anne would make a match of it. Of course I know one always makes those plans for one's children and they very seldom come off, and one doesn't help matters at all by attempting any sort of suasion, but I did venture to say to Anne this morning that if she were to announce her engagement now, it would put an end to all this gossip about her and Vronski."

"What did Anne say to that?" asked Bigelow, carelessly.

"She agreed with me," answered Mrs. Phelps. "But I don't know that that means anything because she does sometimes agree with me just to avoid argument."

Through the greater part of lunch, the old lady rambled on telling him about Philip Whitelaw—about the time he and Anne were becalmed in his small sailing yacht at the Cape; about the time he had had the motoring accident when he was staying with them in Florida and Anne had been so clever about the tourniquet that had saved his life, practically; and about the time Anne's horse had lost a shoe in Mexico and she had to get off and walk him, and they all thought she'd been abducted by bandits because she didn't come back, and how Philip gathered together a posse to rescue her.

Long before Bigelow put her in her car at half-past three, he had come to loathe Philip Whitelaw.....

$125,000 FIRE RAZES CINCINNATI BUILDING

Fireman Injured When Wall Collapses; All Equipment Brought Into Battle.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Fire believed to have started from an overheated salamander destroyed the four-story brick building of the Arthur Baehr Wholesale Grocery Co. today with loss estimated by Fire Chief Barney J. Houston at $125,000.

A fireman was hurt when the south wall of the structure collapsed into Front street. He was taken to General hospital.

Houston said loss would aggregate $90,000 to contents and remainder for the building which, during height of the recent flood, was inundated to a depth of 20 feet or more.

A general alarm brought every available piece of apparatus within the central downtown area to the scene, but Houston said the flames were under control.

The building was located in the heart of the "bottom" wholesale grocery and commission house section.

Stalin Record Includes Rebuilding of Russia To Rank of World Power

STALIN'S FIGHTERS

These Russian seamen, examining a torpedo on a Soviet training ship, are cogs in the mighty war machine Stalin has built to defend the world's first communist state.

STALIN'S FARMERS

To unify the masses and set them working for the state has been Stalin's biggest task. Here a collective farm brigade leader reports to the government accountant.

This is the last in a series of articles on the life of Joseph Stalin, Russia's uncrowned, self-made ruler.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Joseph Stalin, Soviet chief, has marked his dozen years of supreme leadership with monumental works.

Many foreign nations question the beauty and desirability of some of these works and bitterly condemn Stalin's methods of building. But the structures, good or bad, are great pyramids in Russian history, and the Steel Man has in large measure accomplished the mighty tasks which he laid out for himself.

Perhaps his outstanding achievement has been making a vitalized unit of 175,000,000 people of various creeds and races—largely illiterate, poverty-stricken, downtrodden peasants who were plodding aimlessly and hopelessly through life.

Economic Structure Rebuilt.

Stalin started from scratch in solving the great problem of educating and unifying the masses. He hasn't solved it yet, for that will take generations, but he has turned Russia into a world power—a world-menace, Germany and other anti-communists call it.

One of Stalin's first moves when he assumed power was to start rebuilding the economic structure of the country. He ended private trading and instituted collectivized farming.

Then, in 1928, he launched his five-year plan for industrialization of Russia—and the outside world laughed. He began constructing and operating great steel plants, electric works, automobile and tractor factories. He built ships, railroads, canals and hydro-electric plants. He opened mines and established foundries and smelters.

Technicians Imported.

Because all this was new to Russia, technical experts were called from America and other countries to teach the Russian workman his job. This program required immense expenditures abroad. The money could only come from exports, and Russia started to dump her products on the markets of the world, wheat being one of the large exports.

Stalin shortly encountered trouble from the kulaks, the larger and more prosperous farmers, who refused to cooperate and supply the government with produce. They slaughtered cattle for feasts and refused to plow their ground for grain.

It was then the Steel Man showed the streak of ruthlessness which is in him. Soviet agents seized from the kulaks the amount of grain to which the government would have been entitled from a normal crop.

Famine Toll Great.

Since there already was a scarcity of grain, millions faced dire want. Estimates of deaths from starvation went to more than a million.

"The kulak is the enemy of the government," said Stalin. "He is to be liquidated as a class."

Under Stalin's driving power the five-year construction plan was completed in four years. The leader promptly embarked on another five-year drive, the object of which was to consolidate what had been done and to increase production and improve quality.

Production Shows Gain.

The measure of success which Stalin achieved was recorded in a report of the international labor office at Geneva in 1936. This stated that the Soviet Union had attained a level equivalent to 309 per cent of its 1929 output.

While Stalin was remodeling the economic and industrial structures, he also was creating a great, modernized army and air force. Russia today is said to have one of the most powerful military machines in existence. Some 11,000,000 trained soldiers reportedly are available for action. Munitions and instruments of war have been provided.

War Strength A Secret.

The Union has a veritable armada of airplanes, but the total is not known. Moscow has said that there are more than 7,000, but unofficial estimates run as high as 10,000.

Stalin closed 1936 by giving his people a new constitution, providing for "soviet democracy." It granted universal suffrage and permitted any citizen to be a candidate for membership in a two-chamber parliament. This document was said to prepare the way for pure communism when there should no longer be need for a government which would be an organ of compulsion.

The congress of soviets in Moscow unanimously adopted the constitution which Stalin characterized as "the most democratic constitution of those existing in the world." In presenting this historic document to the congress the leader made the second public speech in the more than 12 years of his reign.

Vernon Heights Wins Junior High Title Third Year

CLINCHES 1937 FLAG BY BEATING EDISON QUINTET, 26 TO 6

Hudson and Irvine Set Pace; Edison Ends Season in Second Place.

Vernon Heights Junior high school's varsity basketball team clinched its undisputed claim to city championship honors last night by defeating Edison's team, 26 to 6. By winning the title game on its home court the Vernon club annexed the city title for the third consecutive season.

The team, coached by J. Eugene Auld, is composed almost entirely of the same aggregation which swept through last year's schedule to a championship. Last night they were playing in top form and held the invading Edison team a single free throw during the entire first half.

Vernon's varsity finished the season with a record of three victories in four games, losing only to the Central Junior high combine in an early season game. With last night's contest completing the final round of the 1936-37 season, Edison finished in second place with a record of two wins in four starts, while Central won one of four league contests.

Vernon was out in front 5 to 0 at the quarter, 13 to 1 at the half and 22 to 4 at the start of the final period. With an impenetrable defense the East End team stopped the visitors cold and permitted them only two successful action shots.

Hudson, forward, and Irvine captain and center of the winning aggregation, paced the team to its one-sided victory which decided the championship. Hudson dumped in four baskets and three fouls, while Irvine came through with three action shots. Vernon's fast-breaking offense was clicking to perfection as the Auld-coached all-stars went on the scoring spree which spelled victory.

In a preliminary reserve contest the Vernon reserve dished out a 35 to 7 defeat to the invading Edison team. Vernon's defense was especially difficult for the visitors to solve and by winning the reserve team garnered the city title without dispute. Vernon's team was ahead 4 to 2 in the first period, 17 to 2 at the half and 24 to 5 at the start of the last stanza.

THEY HAVE BEEN TRYING TO COUNT HIM OUT FOR YEARS - YET LAST SEASON WAS ONE OF THE VETERANS BEST
E-ER THANKS
THE NEW YORK BASEBALL WRITERS SINGLED HIM OUT FOR A SPECIAL AWARD
DAD'

Tony Lazzeri finds himself in a strange spot. Instead of listening to the customary wail of experts who had taken it upon themselves each winter to count Tony out of the big league picture, the veteran second baseman of the world champion Yankees is blushing after the verbal bouquets tossed in his direction at the annual dinner of New York baseball writers. Tony was selected by that group as the "player of the year," and presented a plaque to prove it.

All this leaves Lazzeri puzzled. It gave him considerable satisfaction in the past to confound the experts who insisted on relegating him to the boneyard. But now that they have singled him out for special honors, what is he going to do? Flop, to prove them wrong again? It puts Lazzeri in a spot.

Yanks Agreed

The Yankees themselves figured that Tony's days as a big league player were numbered. They took precautions to guard against the day when Tony would no longer be able to play as a regular. They bought youngsters like Jack Saltzgaver and Don Heffner. They even started Saltzgaver at second one season. It wasn't long before Tony was back.

When Lazzeri seemed slipping a few seasons ago they moved him to third where he would have less territory to guard. He did all right, too. Another time he played shortstop. He even filled in at first base for Lou Gehrig—when Gehrig was sick and played only part of an inning to maintain his iron-man mark. Tony filled in as a left-fielder more than once.

Big Moments

He has had better seasons than 1936 both at the plate and in the field. But he had his moments last season. There was that day in Philadelphia when he hit three home runs, two with the bases loaded, and batted in 11 runs. In the World series he poked out a homer with three men on the bags. All told, Tony finished the season with three new and one tied major league records, one broken American league standard and one new and two tied World series marks.

Through his years of service with the Yankees there has been one outstanding characteristic of his work. That's his spirit. No rookie ever worked harder to get in shape. He never lets up. He is always trying. That's why he is one of the most dangerous batters in the clutch. Others may boast better averages but when it comes to a showdown, Tony yields to none.

MARION BOWLERS ENTER TOURNAMENT

Marion will be represented in the state bowling tournament at Columbus by the Marion Builders & Supply squad, which will participate in the competition Saturday night and Sunday. The team, composed of Arthur Wintersteller, Lee Schuler, John Dugan, John Steinmetz, Samuel Sharrock, will roll in the five-man event at 5 o'clock Saturday. Wintersteller and Dugan, Schuler and Steinmetz, will be paired for the doubles' event Sunday afternoon.

The men will also participate in the singles' competition Sunday afternoon, and on their return from Columbus will stop over at Delaware for a match game with a representative team of that city. The tournament in the capital city is being sponsored by the Columbus Dispatch.

HIGH PRICED ROOKIE, BILL CISSELL, TRIES MAJOR COMEBACK

Athletics Buy Him for $7,500; Once Bought from Minors for $75,000.

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12—Bill Cissell, one of the highest priced rookies ever to break into major baseball, may stage a comeback with the Athletics next season.

Roy Mack, vice president of the A's, disclosed that the club obtained the former White Sox second baseman from Baltimore for the regulation draft price of $7,500, or exactly one-tenth the sum Chicago paid Portland, of the Pacific Coast League, for the player years ago.

The Athletic management is confident that Cissell can hold down second base regularly during the 1937 season. Roy and his dad Connie Mack feel the veteran infielder still has a lot of good baseball left in him.

"Can't Go Wrong"

"You can't go wrong on paying $7,500 for a player who was sold to the majors for $75,000 cash and two players," explained Roy Mack. "I would not at all be surprised to see Cissell come back and play as good as ever. He is not old, by any means, and if he trains faithfully in our Mexico City Spring camp he should be a good man for us."

Roy Mack, for many years secretary to the Portland, Ore., club, springboard from which Cissell jumped into the majors, recalled the deal that sent Bill to the Windy City.

"This was how the deal was closed," said Mack. "Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, paid the Portland club exactly $75,000 in cash, while, in addition he turned over Pitcher Bob Cole and Outfielder Ike Boone, who must have represented a market value of $20,000. That's what he had to do to outbid other clubs who were angling for Cissell.

Set Record Price

"Every time Cissell was moved in earlier days big money was involved. The Portland club paid Des Moines $10,000 for Cissell to get him in the Pacific Coast league. Up to then that was the highest price one minor league club ever paid another league for the release of a player.

"It was big money to pay a C... A league team, but the Port... made $65,000 on the transac... and, in addition, had the ser... of Cissell for a couple seasons. White Sox finally traded Cisse... Cleveland, and the Indians sent... to the Red Sox and then he ... to the minors."

Kenaston Agrees To Bar Airplane Spin in Monday Mat Tilt with Paul Orth

Marine Mauler, However, Won't Refrain from Effective Hold if Clevelander Starts To Use Rough Tactics.

[illegible] Cleveland's Tarzan of the Mat [illegible] have his special referee next Monday night [illegible] a comeback effort [illegible] Big Marine, Sergeant [illegible] of Silver City, Ore. [illegible] being decisively beaten [illegible] a few weeks back, [illegible] match with the [illegible] airplane spin barred, [illegible] get his wishes; that [illegible] has agreed to bar [illegible] Orth relies only on [illegible]

The Orth-Kenaston match will be [illegible] conventional 90-minute [illegible] with two falls to win. In the [illegible] featured one hour and a [illegible] match Cecil McGill of Long [illegible] Ca[illegible] will meet Jimmie [illegible] of Birmingham, Ala. Both [illegible] and his opponent have been [illegible] the Marion ring before. Mc[illegible] having participated in last [illegible] program, and Lott appeared [illegible] in a recent preliminary.

Fans who saw Kenaston maul the rough and tough Orth in the previous bout here will be in for a round of excitement when the two grapple with the Marine's favorite hold barred. Kenaston, in his half dozen appearances here, has consistently used the airplane spin and body slam to annihilate his opponents. With that hold barred, it is a matter of conjecture what the sergeant will turn to in his efforts to tame Orth.

Of course, the sergeant need only bar the hold so long as Orth remains a clean scrapper, and that isn't likely to be such a long time after the opening bell sounds. The Tarzan of the Mat is widely known and quite as widely disliked for his rough an' tough display. If he hopes to accomplish anything against the big Marine, it will be necessary to avoid the fatal airplane spin and to do that he must refrain from the rough stuff.

Fans, however, doubt that Orth can do any wrestling without his usual display of roughness, and in that case he probably will be setting himself up as another victim for Kenaston. The ring-siders have come to admire Kenaston in no small way and the fact that he has already won over Orth gives him the edge for next week's scrap.

Cecil McGill, who meets Jimmie Lott in the other main go Monday night, was in the Marion ring trading holds with Dave Zenable of Dallas, Tex., last week. It was McGill's first appearance here and the red-headed youngster, although handicapped by the size and weight of his opponent, made a creditable showing.

Clean to the final hold, he absorbed no little amount of rough stuff at Zenable's hands, but should be considered a desirable opponent for Lott, whose tactics are based on the same foundation of scientific grappling. Lott, fans may recall, participated in a fast preliminary bout here about three weeks ago which aroused plenty of comment. He showed his adeptness at clever wrestling and should give McGill a good opportunity to test his skill to the limit.

The program, to be held at the Shovel gymnasium, will be completed with a 30-minute preliminary, which will open the program at 8:30 o'clock.

The Trader Scores Again!

THE TRADER SCORES AGAIN!
TRADER HORNSBY
STANDS TO HAVE SOLTERS ALL THE BETTER OF THE BAD DEALS WITH CLEVELAND—
VOSMIK, KNICKERBOCKER AND HILDEBRAND ARE BOLSTER THE BROWNS!

They call him "Trader" Hornsby, and the records show that he usually gets all the better of swaps with other big league bosses.

Cleveland, desperately seeking a pennant in 1937, went to the old Trader last month and engineered what is probably the biggest trade of the off-season. The Indians may have temporarily bolstered their club for the coming season, but neutral observers agree that the Brownies' Rajah scored another ten strike.

Knickerbocker, Vosmik and Hildebrand seem to hold better prospects for the future than Lary, Solters and Andrews. Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker is four and a half years younger than Lyn Lary, and is a better hitter than the man he changes uniforms with. Joe Vosmik, who finished within a fraction of a point of winning the batting championship two years ago, seems definitely to outrank Moose Solters as an outfielder.

Joe is one of those fellows who appears to alternate having good and bad seasons, and if this holds good he is due for a great year in '37. Hildebrand appears to be potentially a better hurler than Andrews, and, under the astute Hornsby, may soon reach stardom.

HI-Y CHAMPIONSHIP CONTESTS SCHEDULED

First Game Set for Saturday Afternoon on Y. M. C. A. Gym Court.

The first of two games to decide the championship of the Hi-Y basketball league and the fourth series of games in the second round of the Torch-Y schedule will feature cage activity at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon.

The Falcon and Celtic entries in the Hi-Y loop will be matched against each other to decide the winner of the second round of competition. The teams finished with identical records of four victories in five games. The victorious team Saturday will meet the Presidents team, winner of the first round of competition, with the league championship at stake the following week.

Four games are set for the Torch-Y program with the undefeated Trojan and Buckeye quintets meeting in the final contest at 3:15 o'clock. In preceding games the Norsemen will tangle with the Arrow quintet at 1:30 o'clock, B-Square's entry will meet the K-Y Juniors at 2:15, and Simba and Casic teams will clash at 3 o'clock.

Like you we have just invested in the future of Marion. Our new streamline Buses are similar to those used in New York, Detroit and other cities. These Buses were quite an investment . . . But they were so graciously received and our patronage has so increased that within the very near future we must increase our fleet.
You too have been well received in Marion . . . And we hope it won't be long until you find it necessary to expand and have to add both to your building and to your group of workmen.

BAN ON CHILD LABOR STEP NEARER LAW

New Mexico 27th State To Ratify Amendment to U. S. Constitution.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 — New Mexico's ratification of the child labor amendment coincided today with a prediction and an expression of hope from two cabinet officers that it would be added to the Constitution this year.

New Mexico was the 27th state legislature to approve the proposal. At the same time, South Dakota rejected it. Nine more states must act favorably before it becomes law.

Secretary Perkins said she believed enough other legislatures would vote for it this winter to insure final enactment. She listed New York, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, Kansas, Maryland, and Texas among those she considered likely to ratify.

Attorney General Cummings said in a statement expressing hope for ratification:

"The vital problem of child labor can best be solved by nationwide action."

COURT NEWS

Asks Suit Transferred

Petition for removal of the $35,250 damage suit of Clarence Perry of Marion against the Pennsylvania railroad from common pleas court to the United States District court at Toledo was filed yesterday by the defendant. For grounds for removal, the company says the suit is of a civil nature and involves more than $3,000 and is between citizens of different states.

Judge Hector S. Young set the hearing on the petition for Feb. 16 at 9 a. m. Perry has asked damages as result of a train-auto accident Jan. 8, 1936, at the Bellefontaine avenue crossing. He alleged the company was negligent in failing to provide a watchman or give warning of the approach of the train which struck the Perry car and dragged it 160 feet.

He asks $30,000 personal damage, $5,000 for the loss of services of his wife, whom he said was permanently injured, and $250 for his automobile.

Paul D. Smith is his attorney, while William C. Beers of Bucyrus represents the railroad.

Suit Is Dismissed

Suit of the BancOhio Securities Co. of Columbus against the Marion city school board for $115 in interest on a group of school bonds which were due last March and not paid off until June has been dismissed in common pleas court. Frank C. Gegenheimer, clerk of the board, said he will mail a check for $110 to the company shortly. A settlement was reported at this figure. The delay in paying off the bonds resulted from the lateness in receiving school money from the county treasury, school officials said.

The suit of the General Schuyler Insurance Co. of Columbus against Francis G. Smith of Marion for $162.15 as a result of an accident Oct. 24, 1934, between a car driven by Smith and a car driven by James E. By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Col. Horatio B. Hackett of Washington, D. He advised the engineers, who opened a three-day meeting here, that the PWA spent more than $90,000,000 on 500 projects in Ohio.

CONFESSION MADE IN KIDNAP KILLING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—J. Edgar Hoover said yesterday federal agents had "a full confession" from Robert Kenyon, in which the 20-year-old Missouri farm hand assumes entire blame for the kidnap-killing of Dr. J. C. B. Davis two weeks ago.

Dr. Davis, an elderly Willow Springs, Mo., physician, was kidnaped Jan. 26 and found dead of bullet wounds eight days later in a thicket near his home.

Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said the latest version of Kenyon's story established that Kenyon alone was implicated.

HISTORY PROVED WRONG

Archaeologists delving among the relics of the Shang Dynasty in Honan Province find the history books of China have been guilty of many mistakes through the years. Already 50 pits and 100 tombs have yielded a vast amount of information about the dynasty which existed from 1783 to 1135 B. C. The principal error has been with regard to chronology. The names of many kings have been misspelled frequently. The years of various reigns are badly out of balance. It will take much time and patience to sift the data and correct history so as to give the Chinese people a proper understanding of their ancient civilization.

FACTORY BUILDING HOLDS UNIQUE SPOT IN MARION

Has Been Home of Two Companies Whose Buildings in Other Cities Have Been Destroyed by Fire

The factory building at the Defiance Pressed Steel Co holds an interesting niche in the city's industrial history in that it has figured in the location of new industries in Marion

structive in that we point to plants in other cities On both occasions it was an instrument of the Chamber of Commerce in helping to bring a new concern here

Much publicity was given to the desirability of the factory building and its location Pressed Steel Co was a factor in finding the new aluminum industry to come to Marion following a fire that destroyed its plant at Defiance

It was under similar circumstances that the concerns factory building was constructed more than 20 years ago when the plant of the Power Mfg Co burned Fire obliging the company to seek new quarters

Funds Raised for Building

The Marion Chamber of Commerce interested the Power Co in Marion as a site for its new factory and raised funds to construct the building on a five acre tract purchased from the Osgood Co

The Power Co moved to Marion to continue manufacturing Diesel type engines and continued there until operations were shifted to the main plant of the Osgood Co to make way for occupancy by the Defiance Pressed Steel Co

The building originally consisted of the right hand section of the I shaped structure and was constructed in 1911 later the power house and power plant and a brick office building and in 1920 constructed the east west portion of the L when business expansion made old quarters inadequate

In May of 1929 the capital stock of the company was purchased by the Osgood Co and since that time it has been operated by the Osgood Co its Diesel type motors furnishing power for flour and feed mills cotton gins and water pumping units in the rice fields Motors ranging from 25 to 180 horsepower are made by the concern

No record of the original cost of the building is available but its construction cost is estimated to have been in excess of $400 000

C of C Still Holds Deed

The Chamber of Commerce raised $80 000 last year by public subscription for the Defiance company to locate here using $50 000 of that amount to purchase the Power building and the remaining $15 000 to provide an office building However the Chamber of Commerce will continue to hold the deed for the building until $700 000 in payrolls has been distributed by the company provided this is done within a period of three and one half years If the payrolls reach the amount within the three and one half year period the factory becomes a gift to the company

Officials of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co assert the building is ideal in every respect for their operations The factory lends itself to economical operation and although it does not have the floor space the company had in Defiance it is adequate for the present they said

Men familiar with the metal stamping industry throughout the country all have visited the plant and have described it as one of the finest in that line of work in the United States

FRANCES WILLARD GROUP ENTERTAINED

Frances Willard and the Centenary was the discussion topic at a meeting of the Anna Gordon W C T U Wednesday afternoon with Mrs Carl V Roop of South Prospect street Mrs C S Lippincott president was in charge of the meeting which opened with a song Mrs Roop was in charge of devotions and the program which consisted of reading Mustered Out by Mrs W Dexter Hazen an article on Effects of Ethyl Alcohol on the System and quotations of Frances Willard by Mrs Lippincott Rev Carl V Roop pastor of the First United Brethren church gave a temperance talk Mrs W T Sifritt and Miss Margaret Burgoyne were enrolled An institute will be held March 10 at the home of Mrs Imbody on Bixler avenue

Glacial Period Blamed for Ohio River Floods

By The Associated Press

OXFORD O Feb 12—To add a new theory on why the recent Ohio valley flood caused so much damage Dr A C McFarlan head of the University of Kentucky geology department turned back to the glacial period

Glacial ice he pointed out in a recent lecture at Miami university here blocked the northward flow of such streams as the Big Sandy Licking and Kentucky rivers and formed a huge lake

Seeking a southward outlet the waters carved out what is now the Ohio river valley according to his theory

The difficulty is that too many people and industries occupy the present flood plains and former flood plains of streams he said They are attractive places except in times of flood

Supporting his theory Dr McFarland said that it was unlikely such a small stream as Mill creek which flows through the west side of Cincinnati could excavate such a large valley as that in which it is located

He said he considered it was part of the pre glacial Licking river valley heading northward

Dr McFarlan added that in Louisville history repeated itself during the recent flood when the Ohio river which once flowed through the heart of the downtown section did so again

This change in the course of the river is another drainage modification tied up with the events of the glacial period he said The broad low land on which much of the city of Louisville is built were developed because of the weak rock outcropping down stream from the falls of the Ohio The falls themselves represent the outcrop of massive resistant limestone and coral reef

"DEFIANCE"

Is A Perfect Word For It

Even the ravages of a plant-leveling fire could keep Marion's newest industrial concern out of production only a little more than six months. An experience that has marked finis to countless others simply spurred it on to reestablishment on a larger scale. That's the spirit which really justifies the description, typically American. Having served the American people in virtually all its geographical and social habitats through its most rampant pioneering and inventive eras, we feel certain authority in our opinion that the good people of The Defiance Pressed Steel have well demonstrated their company's right to the name it bears. We are indeed proud to have enjoyed long standing business relationships with a name so truly proud.

FRANCE HONORS 'PERE OF RAILS'

Statue Unveiled on 150th Anniversary of Birth of Famous Builder

By United Press

TOURON France—Paying tribute to Marc Seguin the Father of French Railroads a 40 foot statue has been unveiled here on the banks of the Rhone river The statue was dedicated in honor of the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of Seguin's birth

Seguin was a friend of many famous inventors and social lights of his epoch including George Stephens English inventor of the locomotive and Robert Fulton the American inventor who did much in bringing railroad and steamboat travel to America Stephenson himself came to France when the first French railroad line from Lyons to St Etienne was completed by Seguin and dedicated almost the same time as the opening of the first Baltimore and Ohio line in America

Also Built Bridges

Seguin's genius was not limited to railroad construction He constructed the first cable suspension bridge in France at the spot where the statue was unveiled This bridge attracted worldwide attention and brought engineers from every country of the world to study it Among them were the Rochling brothers and others from the United States The ideas and experiences of Seguin were useful in construction of the first suspension bridge in the United States

Although not the inventor of the railroad it was Seguin who made the first vital change which gave steam trains the advantage over all other forms of transport It was he who invented the tubular boiler permitting railroad trains to increase their speed from 4 to 40 miles an hour an unheard of speed in those days

Seguin was far ahead of his time not only in mechanics but also in social theory and practice An admirer of the socialists of his time Robert Owens of England and Saint Simon in France he carried out innovations in his factories which were regarded as fantastic but which showed their effects in better health and increased output on the part of his workers

He inaugurated a profit sharing scheme on his inventions with his workers and built garden cities the first in France for them He instituted the 10-hour day in his shops and made radical proposals for the reduction of the working day

All these facts of Seguin's life were recalled at the unveiling of his statue by his grandson Laurent Seguin a French senator railway man and engineer and members of the Montgolfier family

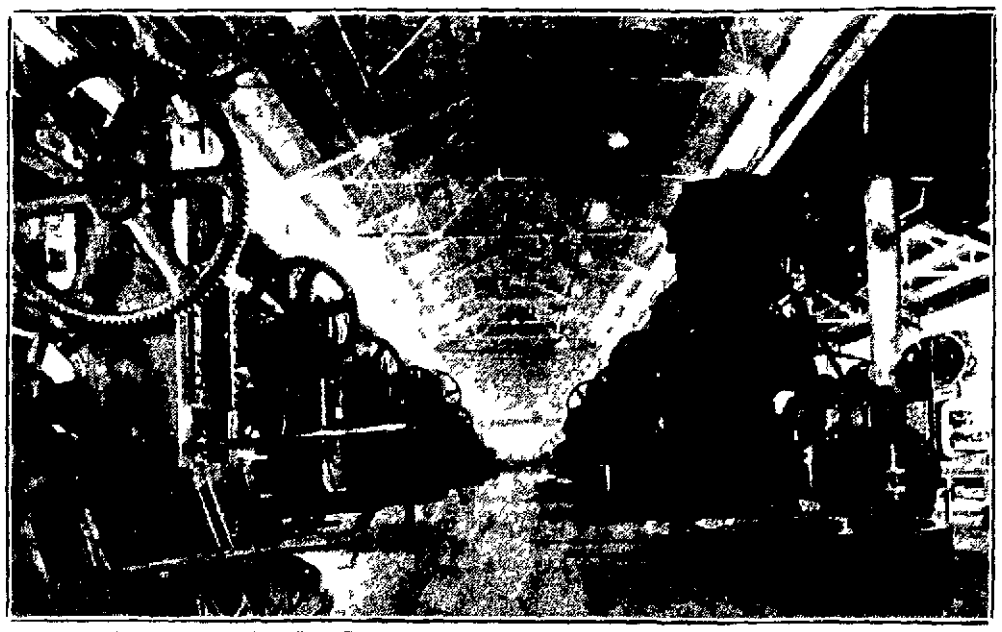
Main Plant Nearly Twice As Large As Grid Field



Some conception of the size of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co s main plant is caught by the camera in the photograph above On each side are machines used in converting sheets and strips of metal into various products The main plant shown in this photograph is 900 feet long—almost twice the length of a football gridiron

Variety of Products Gives Pressed Steel Co. Unusual Protection Against Seasonal Slumps

PRODUCTS of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co which is formally opening its doors as a Marion industrial concern find their way into the lives of more Marion residents than those of any other factory in the city

This is proved by the assertion of company officials that some part produced in the plant is on every make of automobile On some cars nearly 100 different parts have come from Marion's new factory

Automotive products especially automobile heaters make up one of the principal lines of the company but there are others for which it is widely known including metal cases for beer and milk It also makes metal stampings for a long list of industrial concerns whose products range from chill drums toys to giant insulators for electric transmission lines

The various fields of industry and business into which the company's metal stamping operations are linked provide unusual freedom from seasonal slumps The production periods for the major lines of the plant overlap and in addition there is a constant flow of general stamping work Probably the four principal products are metal cores for automobile steering wheels hot water heaters for automobiles automobile spring covers and metal cases for handling bulks of milk and beer

Steering wheel production is one of the major branches of the business and is constant not being materially affected by the change of seasons

Hot water heater operations rise to a peak from August to November each year From November to June metal covers for automobile springs get heavy play in the factory and from June until August production of metal cases for milk and beer is stepped up

Although the average layman probably is not familiar with more than half a dozen styles of automobile steering wheels the Marion concern makes metal cores for about 200 different sizes and styles They are for various makes of automobiles and for motortrucks tractors and trucks They go from the company's plant to manufacturers who cast them with a composition

The metal beer case has a warm spot in the hearts of company executives because it was the principal product until prohibition suddenly crushed this phase of the business Thankful for the flexible policy on which the concern has been operated officials quickly turned to other products and found the automotive field most attractive It branched out in various other fields However since prohibition revival the company has resumed manufacture of the metal cases and now produces large numbers of them One user has more than 3 000 000 of the company's cases in service

The company's milk case line the best cases are used throughout the world There are active markets for them in South African Central and South America and especially in Cuba where wooden cases are forbidden as a sanitary measure

Some of the articles the concern makes for automobiles include body and chassis hardware motor support parts spare tire and wheel carriers gasoline tank flange ignition wire conduits license plate brackets metal floorboards spring shackles brake lever handles When an expensive make of automobile recently brought out a model with headlights that could be drawn into the front fenders and concealed by means of a control at the dashboard the mechanism was produced by the Defiance company

The concern makes hundreds of different articles outside the automotive field including parts for floor surfacing machinery hill drum vehicles outboard motors baby swings equipment for the lumber industry agricultural ornamental and highway safety fences automobile service station equipment and radios

The company does no foundry work confining its activities to fabricating flat metals into shapes and assembling them It uses a variety of presses for these operations and has a corps of skilled workers who make the tools and dies used in the presses

Cast and machined parts of the company's products are purchased and assembled with the stamped goods made in the plant

Does Finishing

Cleaning pickling galvanizing and finishing of metals is done by the company Pickling is a process to remove the rust from steel Galvanizing is done by dipping metal articles into hot molten zinc to rustproof them Among the products that require a baked enamel finish are automobile heaters This type of finishing is done at the plant and the completed heaters are ready for installation when they are shipped from here

The company makes a variety of products easily because the dressing of various sizes used in its plant are of a standard type that can be adapted to almost any kind of stamped articles by changing the dies between which the flat metal is stamped

Skilled tool makers cut an indented design on the lower plate and a raised design on the upper one When these plates are bolted into place on a press and forced together by controls in the hand of the operator a piece of flat metal is stamped into the desired design Thus if the production schedule should demand it an operator could make dozens of different articles with one press and different sets of plates in the course of one day

The presses range in size from small ones like the type used to test weldings on steering wheels to huge types that stamp heavy strips of metal into shapes for industrial use

BULKLEY FLOOD AID BILL SIGNED

Provides $20,000,000 of RFC Funds for Loans to Disaster Victims.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Congressional afternoon passed and President Roosevelt signed a bill creating a new use of the $50,000,000 Disaster fund, sired as a flood measure by Senators Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, both Democrats. President signed the bill at 4:45 p.m.

The measure permits the new use of capital stock to be purchased by the Reconstruction finance corporation to extend "character" loans to property owners whose homes have been damaged by floods.

The bill was whipped along by democratic congressmen, whisked through the entire legislative maze in a single day. It was introduced Tuesday night.

Introduced in the senate yesterday by Bulkley and Barkley, it was taken up for consideration in the senate banking and currency committee yesterday morning and was reported favorably to the senate at noon. The senate passed it a few minutes later without a roll call.

The senate started its debate at 11 a.m. and after two hours of intermittent haggling and slapping down one amendment after another passed the bill without a roll call vote. There was not a dissenting vote.

Amendments beaten down included one sponsored by floodstate representatives to increase the corporation's loaning power to $1,000,000, another to include flood sufferers of 1936 in the provisions and a Republican amendment to permit no loans by the corporation after June, 1936.

The RFC, under terms of the bill, will purchase stock of the new corporation out of an unexpended balance of the $50,000,000 which the RFC was authorized to lend for catastrophe relief by an act of April 17, 1936.

New Colony Under Rule of "Queen" Mary Purnell

BY C DAVID VORMELKER
(International News Service Correspondent)

BENTON HARBOR Mich —Civil war within the House of David is providing the state of Michigan with a tourist attraction as popular and perhaps more lucrative than the nudist camps of southern California.

It is not the sole drawing card however for ever since the split occurred in 1930 the second colony has been growing and developing into a colony in its own right. This group known as the City of David is under the rulership of Queen Mary who established a new colony together with 217 of her subjects just east of the old grounds when dissension among the sect leaders made permanent disagreement inevitable

The seed of discontent was sown a decade ago when King Benjamin Purnell co-establisher of the House of David sect with Queen Mary died At that time Mary Purnell placed the body of "King Ben in a glass case motivated by a belief common to the sect that he would be resurrected Among many other disappointments the failure of the founder and ruler of the colony to return from the dead caused many members of the group to change their faith in this doctrine of immortality

The group that followed Queen Mary however remained steadfast in that belief and with her as their leader founded the new colony formally known as the Israelite House of David as reorganized In all their tenets and beliefs they are carrying out the principles and theories of the departed King Ben The colony is continuing to grow its membership has been expanded houses and farms have been acquired and a hotel in downtown Benton Harbor incomplete at the time of the split, but included in Queen Mary s share of the original assets has been finished

The other group still known as the House of David is now under the control of H T Dewhirst formerly a superior court judge in California. While King" Ben was still alive Dewhirst became understudy to the ruler and when the break occurred retained the original colony grounds and obtained a portion of the assets which were reported to amount to almost a million dollars

New Colony Prospers

While the old colony continues on as before the new one makes a definite point of adhering to the deceased "King s faith This article he was associated the "queen" has established a restaurant in the new colony popular with the general public where no meat is served. Bernard Shaw, it is said would approve of the menu which includes "mock" steaks

While Dewhirst is a Californian, Queen Mary is a native Kentuckian from the region around the Tiger river where she was born as Mary Stollard She married Benjamin Purnell of Kentucky in 1890 Purnell a broom maker traveled about in a wagon with his wife And eventually they landed in the cult of the Seven Angelic Messengers in Richmond Ind Later they lived in a colony in Detroit but in 190. Purnell accepted the circumstance of a do...

alighting on his shoulder as divine notification of his ordainment as the seventh messenger to lead the "ingathering of Israel" Aided by a wealthy carriage manufacturer who contributed $75,000, the couple established the House of David in Benton Harbor Difficulty with the state and litigation checked the development of the colony in 1923, but no internal problems presented themselves until after "King" Ben s death.

The Gas Company Joins Marion In Welcoming

The Defiance Pressed Steel Company

As a new neighbor, as a new customer — The Gas Company welcomes The Defiance Pressed Steel Company to Marion. This city offers many industrial advantages, and we are glad that the efficient use of natural gas in manufacturing processes could be one of them.

Recent years have seen a greatly increased use of gas by industrial and commercial establishments. In this choice they concur with the overwhelming majority of Marion families who find that gas best serves as the ideal fuel in their kitchens and their homes.

All Marion will profit from the location of The Defiance Pressed Steel Company in this city. It means increased payrolls, increased capital flowing into the community. The butcher, the baker—every local business will share in these benefits. We hope and believe that this new industry will profit, also, in the choice of its location.

Reformatory Head Talks on Crime and Punishment

Arthur Glattke, Superintendent of Mansfield Institution, Addresses Kiwanis Club

Crime and Its Treatment was the subject of an interesting 45 minute talk presented to the Marion Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon yesterday at Hotel Marion by Arthur Glattke superintendent of the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield.

"Crime and its treatment today offers a great problem to America because of the many-sided viewpoints and the multitude of angles involved" Mr Glattke said as he launched into a rapid fire discourse interpreting the work of the institution he heads using examples of cases which have come to his attention he spiced his talk with a light humor which has brought him no little recognition as a clever after dinner speaker.

Placing the responsibility where it belongs in our country's best hope of solving the crime problem was Glattke's assertion as he pointed out that 14 billion dollars are lost annually in United States because of crime. Bringing that figure into more understandable terms the crime loss amounts to $27,000 every minute of the day he said.

Other excepts from his talk follow:

In 101 state and federal institutions today are housed 12,000 prisoners while city and county jails hold 250,000 more. This means a tremendous cost in dollars and cents but there are few who realize the real cost cannot possibly be measured by economic standards.

"Five agencies handle the crime situation. The local police make the arrest the local courts try and sentence the violator who is then turned in an institution the parole board is the release channel and the division of probation and parole is a final check on the prisoner. Each is separate and distinct in its operation but they cooperate in working to a common end.

"The year 1909 brought a distinct change in the treatment of prisoners. Before that the punishment was made to fit the crime later to fit the individual and today the latter is coupled with an effort to rehabilitate the law violator. In the first age of prison history when punishment fitted a crime—a thief's hand was severed a peeping Tom's eyes were removed and more than 3 methods were used to carry out capital punishment.

"Today each prisoner is treated as an individual and the punishment carried out accordingly. Only five methods the guillotine electrocution firing squad hanging and poison gas are considered humane are used in the present age to effect [illegible] In capital crimes.

The Mansfield reformatory's annual budget is two million dollars and the value of its inmates' products totals about a half million dollars. More than 1,200 acres of land are under cultivation and farm products all disposed of to tax supported institutions are valued at $115,000. The population of the reformatory is usually about 2,500 although its peak has reached 3,365. It was constructed in 1896 and is intended for 1,500 prisoners, making it necessary to double up to house the present population.

"During 1936 commitments to the reformatory decreased 25 per cent over the previous year. This was attributed to general industrial improvement one per cent more releases by the parole board and the return of two per cent less of those prisoners who were paroled. A violator may be sent to the reformatory for any one of 61 crimes yet 85 per cent of the commitments are for one of eight violations. They are robbery assault to rob burglary breaking and entering burglary and larceny grand larceny auto stealing and operating an automobile without the owner's consent.

First Offenders Go There

First offenders from 16 to 30 years of age are committed to the reformatory for crimes which are not a felony and those from 18 to 21 who commit a felony may be sent to the reformatory upon an order of the sentencing court. Of a group of boys interviewed concerning the cause for their being in the institution 716 said they needed what they took 391 violators were seeking a good time 376 denied their guilt 285 took automobiles for joy rides 282 committed crimes because they had no work and 158 were involved because they had been in bad company.

There are three main causes for crime—broken homes lack of education and falling away from religious teaching. Sixty five per cent of the violators come from broken homes where either one or the other of the parents is dead or unknown or from divorced parents. The institution is society's last line of defense against the criminal who has already grown away from parental school and religious teachings.

Only 38 per cent of those committed have eighth grade educations and last year 14 were found to be illiterate. The average age of the prisoners is 21 years while the average mental age is but 13. Inmates spend a half-day in school and the other half in vocational training the purpose being to give them academic training equivalent to the high school level and at the same time teach them a trade.

The test of measuring any procedure is in the results—a yard stick for our institution is a comparison of the boys who made good and those who didn't—after their release. We find that for every boy returned five paroled ones are making good in the outside world. Only three per cent recommit crimes, while about 20 per cent are returned for technical parole violations such as failing to report to the parole officer once each month and leaving the state without permission.

"Society must welcome the released prisoner back into the community. Here's an example of what happened in a recent case. A youth had been committed to the reformatory. He was a brilliant and became editor of the institution's news organ. Upon his father's death he received $2,500—enough to easily begin life anew upon his release. But his former friends turned their backs on him and within a month he was returned for stealing a watch. He explained he did it because he had more friends in Mansfield than at home."

During a brief question period following his talk Glattke said that only five per cent of the prisoners are foreign born while the most offenders come from the group whose grandparents are foreign born. Ten per cent of the cases appear to be borderline mental cases he told Kiwanis club members in answer to questions.

Fifty members of the club were present at the luncheon. Carl E. Danner introduced the speaker and J. J. Huebner president was in charge of the meeting.

WELCOME NEIGHBOR!

Back when America was recovering from its civil war and was sounding the first of mighty challenges to industry trying to meet its wants . . . . they were making plowshares in a plant over at Defiance, Ohio, that was later to become nationally prominent in the production of steel pressings, automotive parts and accessories as The Defiance Pressed Steel Company . . . . while here at Marion, a planing mill was the scene of the first activities of Edward Huber and his associates, eventually to be known and patronized throughout all America's farmlands as The Huber Manufacturing Company.

There is just a year's difference or two in the operating experience of these concerns. At first, both were serving the farm market. While Defiance eventually left this field, Huber has remained. Both may be proud of steady employment records in good years and bad. Both may point to their willingness to meet changing demands as helpful in their continued success.

Marion's growth and prosperity has always been a matter of vital interest to us and we hail establishment of the new Defiance Plant as a great stride forward. It is very pleasant for us to greet a concern whose experience has in a manner so closely paralleled our own. In doing so, we naturally adopt the friendly, homely way of the good farm folk who launched us both,—

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO 17

Capital Gains and Losses

Section 117 of the Revenue Act of 1936 deals with the manner or method of taking into account in computing net income gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets as computed and recognized under sections 111 112 and 113

Section 117 (a) provides that in the case of a taxpayer other than a corporation only the following percentages of the gain or loss recognized upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset shall be taken into account in computing net income 100 per cent if the capital asset has been held for not more than 1 year 80 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 1 year but not for more than 2 years 60 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 2 years but not for more than 5 years 40 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 5 years but not for more than 10 years 30 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 10 years

Section 117 (b) defines capital assets as property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business) but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business In this definition the length of time the asset was held by the taxpayer is disregarded

Section 117 (c) provides the rules for determining the period for which a capital asset has been held These provisions are in general to the effect that where property is acquired in an exchange and the property so acquired retains the old basis on which to compute gain or loss or where property is acquired from another person and the property retains the same basis on which to compute gain or loss it it had in the hands of the person from whom it was so acquired the period for which the property disposed of in the exchange or the period during which the property was held for such former owner is also to be included in determining the period for which the property is held for the purpose of section 117 (a)

Section 117 (d) provides a very important limitation affecting all taxpayers (including corporations except with respect to banks and trust companies) that is that losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of $2,000 plus the gains from such sales or exchanges

Section 117 (e) provides that gains or losses from short sales of property and gains or losses attributable to the failure to exercise privileges or options to buy or sell property shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets In the former the percentage of the gain or loss to be taken into account shall be computed according to the period for which the property delivered was held In the latter the gain or losses shall be considered as arising from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for 1 year or less

Section 117 (f) provides that amounts received upon the retirement of corporate bonds and similar evidences of corporate indebtedness with interest coupons or in registered form shall be considered as amounts received in exchange therefor thus giving to any gain or loss thereby resulting to the holder the status of capital gain or loss as the case may be

The UNKNOWN

THE student of astronomy today knows much that was not known by his fellow student of the heavens a generation ago But there are still planets unknown whose light does not reach the earth until millions of years have passed There is much that is unknown in life, too and the future is a vista of mystery opening day by day This much, however, we do know it is faith that makes life faith that makes us see a future and gives us will to build it Defiance Pressed Steel Co has reposed its faith in Marion We congratulate this company on its expression of faith in our progressive town
